Boom Towns In Sunbelt Have Top Crime Rates

By DAVID POWELL
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Booming cities of the South and Southwest are suffering from a "Sunbelt crime syndrome" that far exceeds crime rates in the decaying cities of the North, says a criminologist. Paul Brantingham, a professor at Florida State University, took the FBI Uniform Crime Reports for 1975 and ranked 250 U.S. cities according to their crime rates in seven categories. The results, released Tuesday, are discouraging both to longtime residents of the new boom-towns and the many northerners who moved to the Sunbelt.

"The medium-sized cities of the industrialized Northeast and Midwest come off relatively good," he said in a telephone interview. "It's the Sunbelt that looks bad, with Florida, California and Arizona near the top." Brantingham's top 10 crime cities are all in the South or Southwest. Sunbelt cities dominate the statistics for murder, rape, aggravated assault, burglary and theft, while Snowbelt cities rank high only in robbery and auto theft. "It looks to me like a Sunbelt syndrome," he said. "The areas that are engaged in massive growth produce social and physical settings in which all kinds of crime can go on. Growth creates several important social opportunities for crime."

Four medium-sized Florida cities fall into this situation, ranking among the 10 cities with the highest per-capita theft rates in the nation. Daytona Beach and Fort Lauderdale rank No. 1 and No. 2 respectively. Only one Northern city, Kalamazoo, Mich., is among the top 10 in theft. "Florida's suburbs, its mobile population and its tourism also serve as invitations to the criminal," Brantingham said. "Burglaries seem easier to pull off in a suburban neighborhood accustomed to strangers moving in and out." He noted that eight of the top 10 and 15 of the top 20 cities in the per-capita murder rate are in the South.

Some experts have attributed the South's long-standing murder problem to a number of factors, such as a heritage that looks upon violence as a problem-solver, a lack of gun control and even the warm weather that can touch off tempers. "Murder has long been known as a Southern thing," said Brantingham. "But no one theory explains everything."

Brantingham, while linking an increasing crime rate to growing populations, pointed out that crime is not necessarily higher in large cities. For example, the nation's most populous city, New York, is not among the top 35 U.S. cities in crimes. Based on all seven of the serious offenses used in the FBI reports, Brantingham's top 10 crime cities are: Las Vegas; Daytona Beach, Fla.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Miami; Tucson, Ariz.; Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; West Palm Beach, Fla.; Gainesville, Fla.; Bakersfield, Calif.; and Little Rock, Ark.

Brush Fire Roaring Into California City

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A brush fire fanned by gusty winds roared down from the Santa Ynez Mountains today, destroying expensive Spanish-style homes and threatening businesses in this picturesque coastal city.

Hundreds were forced to flee, and as many as 200 homes were destroyed. Officials said the fire was man-caused, but would not speculate whether it was arson.

The blaze, which started shortly after 7 p.m. Tuesday night, raged out of control in the northeast section of the city, less than one mile from the city's courthouse area and about two miles from the Pacific Ocean.

Shortly before dawn, the winds which had been blowing from the mountains, behind the fire, shifted to a sea breeze, raising worries that the fire might burn back on itself and hit areas which escaped the first stage of flames.

There were conflicting reports on how many homes burned. The U.S. Forest Service said at least 150 homes had been destroyed and the blaze had blackened 600 acres.

But Ken R. Bishop, a city fire department spokesman, said the fire had burned "at least 200 homes," many costing at least $250,000 to replace. "We will be lucky if that's all we lost."

At least 17 persons were reported injured, including seven persons who suffered smoke inhalation. Numerous persons were unaccounted for. "It happened so fast we don't know how many people may be missing," Bishop said. "We do know there are a couple of 8- or 9-year-old kids up there unaccounted for. But there are probably a hell of a lot more."

Anguished homeowners used garden hoses to wet down their wood shingle roofs as fiercer winds blew a storm of sparks and ashes ahead of the advancing flames, which could be seen more than 20 miles away.

It was the fourth major fire in 13 years in Santa Barbara. The others were in 1964, 1968 and 1971.

Fire fighters had a difficult time reaching the fire area because of the winding, narrow roads that made it difficult for trucks to pass. In addition, large crowds of sightseers gathered along the roads, further hampering efforts to get at the flames.

When it began, the fire roared down out of Sycamore Canyon, near an area known as the Riviera which contains some of the area's most exclusive

Lansing Must Desegregate

CINCINNATI (AP) — Public elementary schools in Lansing, Mich., must be desegregated, the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here has ruled in upholding a lower court's order.

In a unanimous decision announced Tuesday, the appellate court reinforced its position that when the actions of school authorities resulted in racially segregated schools, it could be interpreted as an intent to segregate.

The Lansing Board of Education, in its appeal, claimed such thinking had been repudiated by the U.S. Supreme Court.

But the appellate court said the required intent could be inferred from acts and policies of school authorities which had the effect — or foreseeable effect — of producing segregated schools.

Unless the courts are allowed to draw such an inference, the appellate body said, it would be "difficult, and high impossible for a district court to find a school board guilty of practicing de jure segregation."

In its 24-page decision, the appellate court cited what it said were numerous examples of policies which kept minority students in racially identifiable schools.

Among them, the court said, were the "gerrymandering" of attendance zone boundaries and the granting of special transfers from minority to majority schools.

The school board argued that attendance at Lansing public schools is determined by a neighborhood school policy. It attributed the existence of racially identifiable schools to a segregated residential pattern rather than board actions.

Tuesday's decision claimed to be a re-affirmation of a 1973 Supreme Court decision in the case of Keyes vs. School District No. 1. That decision distinguished between de facto segregation (that existing apart from legal conditions) — and de jure (segregation rooted in law).

In a later attempt to define de jure segregation, the 6th Circuit in 1974 said that inference of segregative purpose could be drawn from the "natural, probable and foreseeable result of public officials' action or inaction."

The appellate court said Tuesday's decision was consistent with several Supreme Court decisions dating back to the Keyes case.

The appellate decision upheld the findings of U.S. District Court Judge Noel Fox in Grand Rapids, who found that through its acts, the Lansing School Board had created and maintained a racially segregated school system.

Fox's ruling came in a class action filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The district court ordered the board not to rescind a voluntary cluster-school desegregation plan instituted in June 1972 and ordered that the plan remain in effect until a final remedy was submitted to the court.

Teen Crash Deaths Equated To Murder

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The sheriff is pledging he'll do all he can to lift the license of a bar that apparently served drinks to six underage teenagers just before they died in an auto crash.

"I'll tell you this right now, I'm out to get their license taken away after what happened at that place," Washtenaw County Sheriff Tom Minick said Tuesday.

The sheriff was speaking of the Anchor Inn, where seven men, all under the legal drinking age, were believed to have been drinking before the weekend accident that killed six of them.

"As much as I hate to say it I equate what happened at the Anchor Inn this past weekend to murder because the end result was death," the sheriff added. "We have a moral obligation to get rid of them and close them down and we also have enough legal evidence, I think. This whole thing is a tragedy and it should not be tolerated in the least." There was no answer at the Inn's telephone Tuesday.

All the boys involved in Saturday's Dexter Township accident had indelible ink stamps on their wrists showing they had been at the topless go-go nightclub in Putnam Township in Livingston County before the crash. Their car was torn in two and the engine thrown 25 feet after they hit a tree.

Sgt. George Chapman, head of traffic and safety for the Washtenaw County Sheriff's department, said a 20-year-old student signed a written statement Monday saying he was drinking with all the youths at the Anchor Inn Friday night. The youth, who was not identified, said he saw no one asked for identification or proof of age.

"I believe we have enough evidence now to prove, and I can't believe anything else at this time, that the Anchor Inn served those kids without asking for proof," said Chapman.

Minick said he would meet with Prosecutor William Delhey, Livingston County Prosecutor Frank DeVern and state Liquor Control Commission Chairman Stanley Thayer in an effort to "get a complete overview on how we should at-lack this problem. I think it is safe to say that the three enforcement agencies are after the license of that place."

Minick said he had compiled enough evidence to show that 10 fatalities and 46 personal-injury accidents in the past year had been related to drinking at the Anchor Inn.

"It all adds up," he said. "If you had a series of strange murders going on in that area, then you'd want to find out what was going on, wouldn't you?"

Top Angler Paddles In

MANISTEE, Mich. (AP) — A Wisconsin fisherman hauled in the biggest catch of the contest, but almost lost a $10,000 prize when his boat ran out of gas. John Prieto of Mequon, Wis., paddled to the harbor to beat the contest registration deadline by 10 minutes Tuesday after he landed a 34-pound, 6½-ounce Chinook. Officials of the American Salmon Derby awarded a $10,000 savings bond to Prieto, an employee at the Continental Can Co. of Milwaukee.

Unresisting Man Victim In Stickup

By JOHN DYE

SAWYER — The Sawyer teenager who was wounded during a holdup of Ruby's Truck Wash here yesterday was lying on an office floor with four other employees when shot, state police at Benton Harbor said. Phillip Naumann, 19, was struck by one shot which grazed his head and hit his left arm in the holdup that netted three gunmen about $5,000. Sgt. Jerry Hyland reported, Naumann was listed in good condition this morning at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

Ruby's owner, Anthony (Tony) Motycka, 38, New Buffalo, said the other employees in the room reported Naumann had not attempted to interfere when he was shot. "We did exactly what we were ordered to do, I told the guys that I didn't want any heroes," Motycka said.

Sgt. Hyland said Naumann is believed to have been shot with a .22-caliber handgun and only one shot was fired. All three robbers were armed with handguns, he said.

Motycka said when the gunman entered he and the five employees had been ordered into the office where a safe, containing most of the cash, was emptied. He was then taken to the front of the building to a cash register. He said two of the gunmen stayed with the five employees.

The three gunmen made their getaway in a van owned by Motycka, police reported.

The van was found about an hour after the 7:30 a.m. holdup on Youngren road, about a mile from the truck wash.

Chikaming township police said an area CB radio group found the van. The Wolverine Fleet group identified itself as that organization.

Sgt. Hyland said it remains unknown how the three robbers made their way to the truck wash. He said police are now checking tire tracks found in back of the building.

Asked why $5,000 was on hand at the business, Hyland said Motycka reported he had failed to make bank deposits last Saturday and again on Monday.

Hyland said police have no definite suspects in mind at this time, but he added police speculate the robbers were someone familiar with the operation of the business.

Police said it is believed all three robbers were white and below the age of 30, and that one may have been a young woman.

The other employees at the firm during the holdup were identified by Motycka as Mike Clark, 18, 917 Pearl street, St. Joseph; Earl Dickerson, 29, and Dexter Sansom, 24, both of Sawyer; and Phillip Mills, 29, South Bend.

Lineman Reports Blaze From Pole

Benton Harbor firemen said a Michigan Bell employee working at the top of a utility pole tapped a phone line to report a fire on West May street at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday. Roger Ortega, of Grand Rapids, told firemen he was working at the top of a pole behind a house at 153 West May when he noticed smoke pouring from the house. He phoned the fire department via the tap.

Firemen found the kitchen of a house owned by Shirley Wallace ablaze when they arrived. They said the fire was quickly extinguished but the interior of the house was damaged by smoke and water to the extent of about $8,000. The blaze may have been started from a cigarette thrown into a kitchen trash container, firemen speculated, adding that it appeared the fire had been burning about 45 minutes before it was reported by Ortega. Firemen reported no one was home when they arrived on the scene.

$5,000 Winners

Seven people from southwestern Michigan have been identified by the state lottery bureau as winners of $5,000 prizes in the Michigan lottery's horse race instant lottery game, "Lottery Mile."

The winners include Melvin

Chandler and Thomas Smith, of St. Joseph; Patricia Horvath and Erwin Rouse, of Sawyer; Mark Mathieu, Bridgman; Paul Retz, Watervliet; and Edyth Yacklich, Eau Claire.

Smith's winnings were announced previously.

San Francisco Election Is Battle Over Gays

Things are not always what they appear to be. San Franciscans, for example, will vote Tuesday, Aug. 2, on two proposals that do not seem to impinge directly on the rights of radicals, homosexuals and other minorities in America's most tolerant city. One of the proposals on the ballot, which resulted from an initiative earlier this year, would require Mayor George R. Moscone, District Attorney Joseph Freitas, Jr. and Sheriff Richard C. Hongisto to run for office in November, two years before their four-year terms expire. The other would repeal a proposition approved by voters last November which mandated the election of San Francisco's 11 supervisors by district rather than on an at-large basis.

The proposals were sponsored by a conservative city supervisor, John J. Barbagelata, the man who lost the mayoral race to Moscone two years ago. Barbagelata views the election as a vote of confidence in a city government he describes as dominated by extremists and homosexuals. The election of supervisors by district rather than city-wide, he contends, makes it far easier for these radical minorities to win political power. Barbagelata is supported by wealthy business interests, traditionalists and many lower- and middle-class residents who are deeply concerned about the influx of homosexuals into the city in recent years.

It is hardly surprising in a city where at least 100,000 out of 680,000 residents are believed to be homosexual that the gay community would be assertive and would wield considerable political influence. The homosexual vote was a major factor in Moscone's election two years ago. The Mayor has, in turn, appointed acknowledged gays to the city boards and commissions and sent some of his associates to Miami to campaign for the retention of a Dade County ordinance which banned discrimination because of sexual preference. When Dade County residents voted 2-1 for repeal of the ordinance on June 7, Moscone called the outcome "terribly wrong."

Singer Anita Bryant, who spearheaded the drive for repeal of the Dade County ordinance with a host of biblical quotations and warnings about the impact of "rampant perversity" on young children, has vowed to continue her battle against "sexual permissiveness and homosexuality." One battle site is certain to be San Francisco, a city she and her followers have characterized as a modern-day "Sodom and Gomorrah" and a "cesspool of sexual perversion grown rampant." Given the predictions that liberals and homosexuals would win in Dade County, few are hazarding a guess about the outcome of the San Francisco election or the impact Ms. Bryant may have on the results.

Carter Administration Gave The Right Answer

To its credit, the Carter administration has rejected a suggestion from Congress that it buy up illicit narcotics originating in the "golden triangle" in Southeast Asia and frequently ending its travels in the American market.

That approach was tried before — with Turkey — and it proved a dismal flop. The idea was to purchase Turkey's entire opium crop and thus stop it from entering the underground narcotics trade. The only trouble with such a scheme is that it only encourages farmers of the originating country to grow more. After all, they have a guaranteed sale for their crop.

In Turkey's case, it also meant a constant price escalation by the Turkish government. Finally, Turkey cancelled the arrangement and permitted its farmers to return to what the government called the "legitimate" opium trade.

It is true that Burma, Laos and Thailand are sources of illicit narcotics pouring into the United States. But to reward the narcotics traders by buying — for destruction — all their crops is no way to discourage the practice. Sanctions against individual countries, which refuse to cooperate in stamping out the trade is a better way.

How To Raises Taxes Without Really Showing

Politicians who do not wish to be identified with the stigma of raising taxes sometimes resort to tax gimmickry to accomplish the same ends. One way of accomplishing that is to include prerequisites on tax rolls which previously had been tax-free or to eliminate exemptions from taxable income.

Various figures within Congress and the administration are talking about both approaches this year. A move to eliminate a federal income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes is receiving wide support. Tampering with other deductions such as mortgage interest faces far greater difficulties.

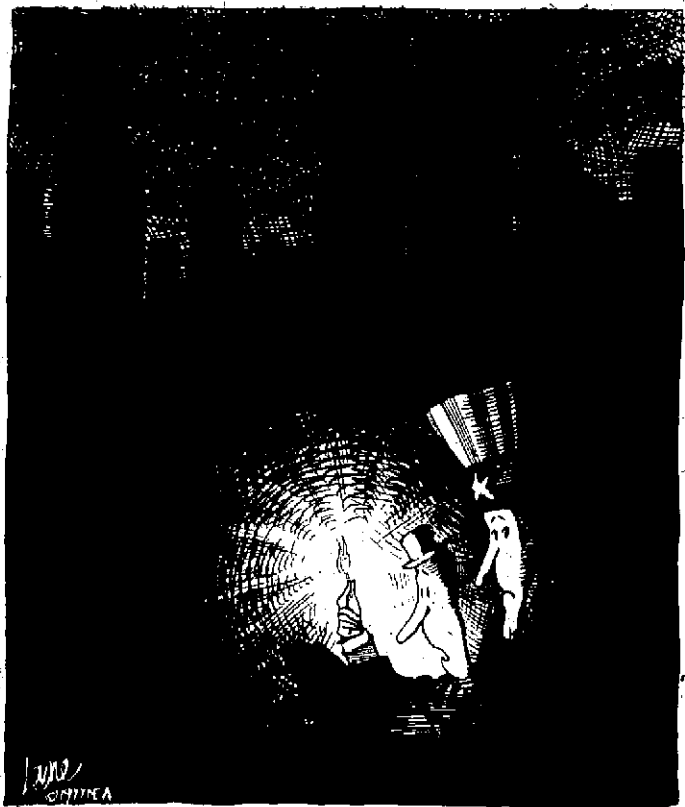

Jerome Kurtz, the former Philadelphia lawyer who is the Carter administration's new Internal Revenue Service commissioner, is zeroing in on benefits offered by employers to their employees. What kind of benefits? Such things as free parking, free transportation and free lunches have been mentioned by Kurtz.

If the IRS chief has his way, the value of these and other fringe benefits would be considered income to the recipient and taxed. Once again the tax man proves there is no such thing as a free lunch.

HER PHONE'S OUT FOR FIVE DAYS

Editor,

I have a grievance against the Michigan Bell Telephone company.

I have not been able to use my telephone for 5 days and nights now — we had no storm that caused the interruption. Ever since Thursday, July 21, 1977, when a telephone serviceman climbed a telephone pole here, I have been without service. My phone was working in good condition until then.

This is utterly ridiculous and unreasonable as far as customer service is concerned. This is a gross health and fire and robbery hazard. I cannot have any out-going or in-coming calls.

The Benton Harbor office has been contacted 5 times so far. They don't seem to care about a customer's service. In case of an emergency at night what am

I supposed to do — run out and wake up a neighbor to use his phone?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Edward A. Mubin, Michigan Bell district manager, said the problem hopefully was solved permanently last night. After having "cleared" the problem on Mrs. Plank's line five times in as many days, a repairman last evening found an old bird's nest built on a multiple terminal on a pole was causing a come-and-go shorting of her line.

WOULD WRITE NAMES IN SAND

Editor,

The Bridgman city commission deserves some very special recognition for doubling the size of the Martin Marietta Aggregate sand mining permit at last Monday night's meeting. The commission, with extraordinary foresight, realized that when the sand mining firm failed to build its promised $7 million processing plant and tunnel, the reason had to be that the company simply needed not 22 but 45 acres of dunes to get things really going.

The amount of additional tax dollars will surely be staggering to the citizens of Bridgman, to say nothing of the elimination of numerous ugly wooded hills that obstruct the view between the lovely Red Arrow and the stunning I-94.

I suggest that a permanent monument be erected to these wise Bridgman city commissioners who voted for this enchanting area. Those interested might simply put a handful of sand into an envelope and mail to the Bridgman City Hall.

It will take a while of course to create a proper sized heart for a monument, but in the meanwhile we could all write the names of those commissioners who voted for amended permit in the remaining sands of Bridgman — every day or so — if the Herald-Palladium would please print them.

Weather Hottest Issue At Hand

WASHINGTON — Politics, the perennial preoccupation of this one-industry town, has finally met its come-uppance. As a topic of conversation, nothing can compete with the weather in this sweltering summer of '77.

Even in a good year, the Washington summer should be avoided if at all possible. And this is not a good year. For weeks on end, the mercury has been mired in the 90-to-100 degree range. The humidity seems permanently stuck in the suffocating 60s.

It is too hot for picnics. It is too hot for gardening. It is too hot for slapping, sightseeing or simple strolls around the block. It is definitely too hot for thinking.

Congress, with its impeccable instinct for self-preservation, is already plotting a month-long escape to cooler climes in August. Its members cleverly fled the worst of the heat wave during their 10-day Fourth of July recess.

The rest of us are stuck, cursing and sweating, wishing the entire government cus to our would just go away and leave us to our misery.

President Carter continues to carp about the energy crisis, prodding Congress to approve his program. Ordinary mortals couldn't care less. The real question is whether the air conditioning will conk out.

The fate of the farm bill may fascinate folks in Kansas, but inhabitants of the nation's capital are fretting about the sad state of our backyard tornado plains.

The Senate has said "yes" to the neutron bomb; the decision stirs almost no one. Weapons of death and destruction make heavy reading in the summer heat. Even Jody Powell, the president's press secretary, rebelled at the weight of the subject when asked about an Arms Control and Disarmament Agency report on the issue.

"ACDA reports . . . neutron bombs . . . killer bees!" Powell crowed with a maniacal grin at a recent White House briefing.

A few of the more dedicated special interest groups still issue doomsday "alerts" to their far-flung members, summoning the troops to lobbying battles on the burning issues of the moment.

Nobody on the receiving end, however, has the energy or inclination to open the mail the zealots generate — let alone read it. The only alerts worth noting here are the dismal daily bulletins on air pollution emanating from our Metropolitan Council of Governments.

From that quarter, the news is uniformly wretched. Day after day, in this city where paperwork is the sole industrial product, the air quality readings come out in the "very unhealthy" range.

Perhaps the smog will stiffen the spines of congressmen tempted to yield to massive industry pressure for relaxing auto emission standards. Wavering lawmakers should be required to walk six blocks through rush hour traffic for inspiration.

There is only one salvation to this singularly unpleasant season: Washington's new subway, which has turned us into a city of joyriders.

The opening of a 12-mile segment through the heart of the business district has created a whole new class of citizens: the "Metro for Lunch Bunch." Every office in town now empties out between noon and 3 p.m. as jaded bureaucrats storm the far-flung watering holes suddenly made accessible within minutes.

For the tourists, the Air and Space Museum may symbolize America's 20th century triumphs of technology. For Washingtonians, the Metro is supreme proof that civilization is still possible in an urban environment.

Crowds Swamp Tut Exhibit

WASHINGTON — The traveling exhibit of the treasures from King Tutankhamen's tomb is such a super-success that officials from the museums yet to display it met secretly recently in Chicago to discuss how to handle the expected mobs.

The burial artifacts of the young Egyptian pharaoh who died 1,350 years before the birth of Christ have proved to be one of the most popular American attractions in history. P.T. Barnum, if he knew, would weep.

The Los Angeles Museum of Fine Arts and the Metropolitan Museum in Manhattan have yet to show the exhibit, which is now in Chicago. When the show began in Washington, lines were somewhat long but so were tempers. In Chicago, people have been waiting daily in lines more than four hours, and once inside the museum harassed guards have tried to hustle them through rapidly. The crowds have been getting unruly.

Fearful of the problems ahead, museum officials sought to benefit from the Chicago experience. They discussed longer museum hours, which would cost more, and other alternatives. What they really don't want is any more publicity to draw any more crowds. Sorry about this rumorm.

An old-fashioned buggy whip hangs on the wall in the Capitol Hill office of Senate Minority Whip Ted Stevens of Alaska. It is literally the Whip's whip. Everett Saltonstall gave it as a gag to Everett Dirksen when Dirksen succeeded him in that post in 1967. It has been ceremoniously passed down to every GOP Whip since.

The Department of Treasury reports that more than one out of four American families has no financial savings. The report is based on a survey made by the University of Michigan.

Rep. Joseph Ammerman, a

Pennsylvania Democratic freshman, has a unique bond with California's veteran Democratic Rep. Phil Burton. A few years ago Ammerman lost a fight to become Pennsylvania State Senate majority leader by one vote, just as Burton earlier this year lost the race for that job in the House by one vote. Both prefer not to dwell on the subject.

Silly as it sounds, the Senate recently passed a bill which would create a commission to study the feasibility of establishing a National Academy of Pence. The idea is that the Pentagon and the National War College should have counterpart bureaucracies working for peace. The measure was first introduced last year by then-Rep. Andrew Young, now the loudmouthed United Nations Ambassador. That explains everything.

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Standards has issued a handy little booklet of tips on how homeowners can save energy. Among several more substantive tips, it suggests: "Keep oven doors closed when cooking." What a novel idea.

St. Joe Tax Backers Organize

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Nearly 40 people organized last night at Upton junior high as volunteers to support a 2.5-mill operating tax proposal that will be voted on Aug. 8 in the St. Joseph school district.

The organization called Citizens for St. Joseph Public Schools also was presented a "fact sheet" describing implications of the election. The sheet also has statistics showing St. Joseph district has fewer administrators per student than the Benton Harbor and Lakeshore districts.

The sheet shows one principal per 432 students in the St. Joseph district, one for 395 in Lakeshore, and one for 371 students in Benton Harbor district.

St. Joseph has one administrator (excluding principals) per 1,048 students, compared to one for 1,317 at Lakeshore, and one for 325 in Benton Harbor, according to Dennis Percy, St. Joseph district business manager, said he prepared the information at request of Citizens for St. Joseph Public Schools.

Percy said Benton Harbor has 32 non-principal administrators and 28 principals. He said the high number of non-principal administrators at Benton Harbor is due in part to a large number reimbursed remedial education programs.

Roger Curry, executive director of Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, said at the meeting the citizens' effort is entirely voluntary and not sponsored by any business or organization. He also said all money for campaigning is to be raised from private donations and is not from school district funds.

The fact sheet says that if the 2.5-mill levy is approved, the cost is $2.50 per thousand dollars of equalized valuation, or $25 on a home with a market value of $20,000. The request is for three years. The sheet also says many taxpayers will qualify for a refund of 60 percent or more of this tax when they file their Michigan income tax forms. Lower income residents and senior citizens were reported the most apt to benefit on this.

School Millage Supported

As reported earlier by the board of education, rejection of the tax proposition will result next year in a cutoff of all athletic and other extra-curricular activities. The fact sheet says 738 boys and 320 girls participate in all types of athletics in grades seven through 12.

Athletics are not self-supporting, contrary to some opinion. It was reported, season tickets and gate receipts amounted to about $20,000 last year, while expenditures for coaches, referees, uniforms, bus transportation and other expenses totaled over $130,000.

Another cut, planned if the millage proposition fails, would be the sixth hour class period. It was reported that all ninth and tenth grades would normally take six subjects, while 60 percent of the 11th grade and 50 percent of the 12th grade would take it.

The citizen organization's statement of purpose cites the low voter turnout June 13 and says:

"As citizens, we have reviewed your board of education request and agree that they cannot do the job for which you elected them without adequate funds. The St. Joseph school system is one of the finest in Michigan. The additional millage is not designed to add any new programs or luxuries.

"The cost for food, electricity, gasoline, heating fuel and everything we buy has increased this year. You have experienced these increases and so has your school district. The 5.1 per cent increase in your school budget is far less than the increases in the costs of other goods and services for which you are paying."

The statement refers to lowered property values that result from "a lesser quality of academic or vocational education."

The citizens organized to contact school-related organizations, such as band and aquatic parents, raise money for newspaper advertisements and radio commercials, post 50 mime and blue "remember to vote" signs Aug. 8, and phone residents.

You Complained About The Heat?

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

You were complaining when the mercury nudged 100 a week ago? You probably complained again when you pulled that extra blanket over your shivering body this morning.

Record lows around Michigan forced residents to don sweaters to cover the goosebumps as frost — yes, frost — battered northern parts of the state.

The lowest temperatures in the state apparently were at Mio, where a 31 degrees was reported by the National Resources station.

Unofficial reports of 31-degree temperatures were also received from Boscawen and other areas north of Houghton Lake.

State agricultural authorities were unaware of the frost reports and said in Lansing it would be "very damaging" to crops.

Frost destroyed many garden products in the central section of Northern Lower Michigan, the National Weather Service said.

A spokesman for the weather service at Houghton Lake said he was "not especially surprised" at the frost because conditions were right for the temperatures to nosedive.

Elsewhere around the state, record low temperatures also were recorded at Lansing, 42 degrees; Alpena, 41; Grand Rapids, 47; Flint, 48; Muskegon, 46; and Traverse City, 45.

Other brisk temperatures — compared to last week's high 90s and low 100s — included Pontiac, 51; South St. Marie, 49; and Marquette, Escanaba and Jackson at 55.

Pedestrian Hit

St. Joseph police said Carl William Blake, 50, of 621 State street, declined treatment after he was struck by an auto while walking across Broad street at the intersection of State at 5:55 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said Blake complained of back pain after he was struck by an auto driven by Matthew Dale Finch, 17, of 542 Howard avenue, St. Joseph. Finch was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian, police reported.

Injury Pay Is Slower Than Mail

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

Lee Nower of Lincoln township, a disabled letter carrier, has found that the worker's compensation division of the U.S. Labor Department moves a lot slower than the mail. Nower, of 1437 West Glenford road, claims the division has fallen 18 weeks behind in his disability payments and has ignored repeated attempts by postal officials in St. Joseph to get the matter straightened out. Nower, 49, said he is entitled to disability pay of $216.45 a week — 74 per cent of his regular salary — or a total of $3,890, for the 18 weeks he has not been paid.

Nower said he has received only one check from the Labor department since he became eligible for disability payments Feb. 17.

He was disabled Jan. 3 when he slipped on the ice while delivering mail and injured his back. He has since undergone surgery and walks with a limp. The post office continued his regular pay for the first 45 days he was disabled.

Nower received his first disability check May 31. It was for $307.82 and was issued to cover the period from Feb. 17 to March 19, he said.

To make matters worse, Nower claims the Labor department's worker's compensation office in Cleveland, Ohio, has ignored several letters and telephone calls from local postal officials trying to find out why Nower is not being paid.

Robert Dyer, superintendent of postal operations at the St. Joseph office, confirmed Nower's claim.

Dyer said he sent several letters to the Cleveland office and received no response. He said that when he has called, the Cleveland office has refused to let him speak to Nower's caseworker there.

He said he was trying to find out if the Cleveland office needed any additional paperwork to process Nower's claim.

Dyer said he finally received a call from Nower's caseworker in June and she said she thought another form was needed. That form was mailed special delivery on June 30, Dyer said.

Dyer said he just learned Monday in a call to Cleveland that the office is processing a check for about $1,300 that Nower should receive in about two weeks.

Nower said it is not the first time he has heard such a promise, and he'll believe it when he sees it.

He said he and his wife Georgia have depleted two savings accounts of more than $2,000 and are now running out of money.

He has sought help from Congressman Dave Stockman (R-St. Joseph) and two postal union officials but so far none of them has been able to find out what the holdup is, he said.

A recent letter he received from Stockman said that the director of the Cleveland office has been asked to investigate the matter and report directly to Stockman. Nower said he was examined by a physician the same day he fell and was certified as being unable to work. He has been a letter carrier since 1955.

Nower said the fall pinched a nerve in his back and left him with only partial control of one leg.

On June, Dr. Edward J. Westerbeke of St. Joseph operated on Nower to correct a herniated disc.

Nower said he is much improved since the operation but he still walks with a limp. Nower is now under doctor's orders to stay home and recuperate for an indefinite period. He plans to return to his job as a letter carrier as soon as he is well.

ADC Dad Handed 90 Days

A Benton township man who has not made a child support payment for his five children since 1974 was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 90 days in jail.

Judge Zoe S. Burkholz imposed the jail term on Lavern Johnson, of 1133 Blossum lane, for $9,543 arrears for five children on ADC, according to Joseph Beckmann, special investigator for the Berrien County child support office.

Johnson was held in contempt of court for the arrears and placed on two years probation, and told to find work within 30 days of his release or spend 60 more days behind bars, Beckmann said. The investigator said Johnson's last support payment was in November, 1974.

Beckmann also reported Judge Chester J. Byrnes sentenced Michael Minkiel, of 777 East Napier avenue, Benton township, to two years probation for $1,455 arrears for two children no longer on ADC. Minkiel was told to find employment and pay $10 weekly on the arrears by Sept. 1 or spend 30 days in jail, Beckmann reported.

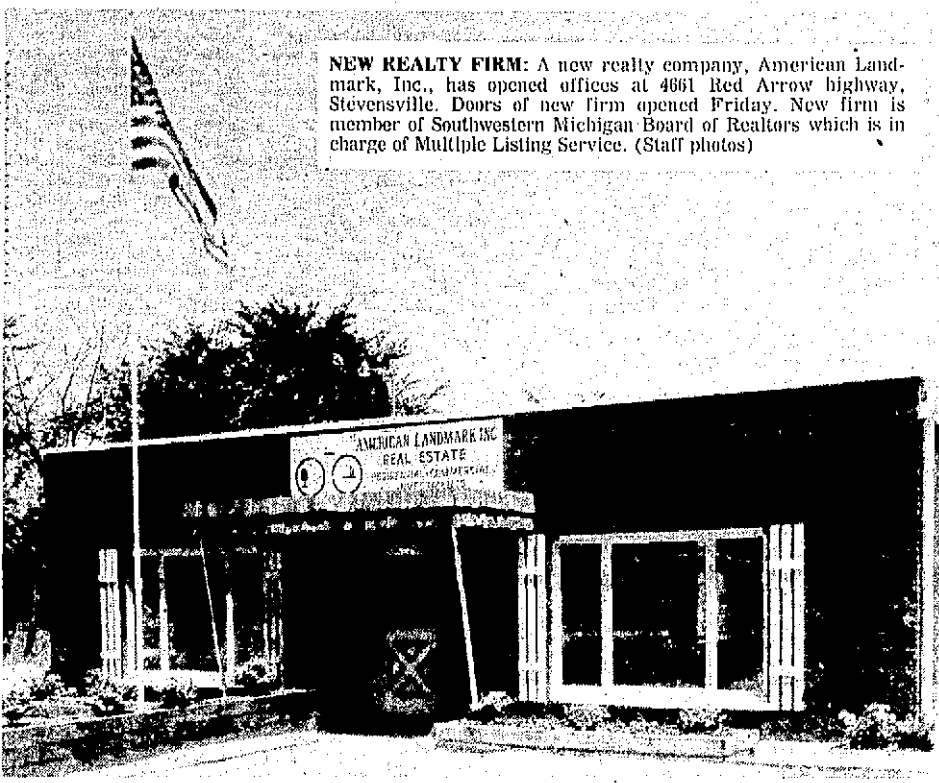

No support was ordered because Minkiel and his wife have reconciled, according to Beckmann, who added that Minkiel made two support payments during 1976.

Two Fires Suspected As Arson

Small fires that appeared deliberately set were extinguished for the second consecutive night at Blossum Acres Public housing project, Benton township police and firemen reported.

Two fires in an unoccupied apartment at 160 Concord drive were discovered at 2:30 a.m. today and extinguished by police. Police then called firemen to put out a fire in a trash container.

Firemen said they doused fires in five trash containers at the project Tuesday.

Nothing 'Former' About Jefferson

Jefferson elementary school, St. Joseph, is continuing to operate as an elementary school. An article in Monday's Herald-Palladium called it "former Jefferson school." The school building also houses the school district's administrative offices along with elementary classrooms.

of the St. Joseph Memorial Hospital association, said 22 of the 29 members of the association voted either by proxy or in person at a special meeting in the hospital board room.

The board of trustees of Mercy hospital announced earlier it will meet tomorrow night to consider the same merger proposal.

The merger proposal calls for the Benton Harbor Hospital association and the Memorial Hospital association to merge into a new non-profit corporation, the Southwestern Michigan Health Care corporation.

Memorial's Tiscornia and Robert B. Willemis, president of the Benton Harbor Hospital association, have announced there will be no immediate change, if the merger is approved, in the structures, beds or operations of the two hospitals.

The target date for the actual merger of the two corporations is Sept. 1, according to Tiscornia and Willemis.

The new Southwestern Michigan Health Care corporation, already formed, has a 30-member board comprised of 15 members from each of the two present hospital boards. Tiscornia is chairman of the new corporation, and Willemis vice chairman.

Appropriate government agencies already have approved the merger in principle. A favorable vote by Mercy trustees tomorrow night would be the final green light.

An Apple A Day Comes Many Ways

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Everybody likes apples and it is easy to use them for variety in snacks and meals.

SHOPPING TIPS: Buy apples that are firm, unbruised, not wilted or punctured, and of good color for the variety.

TO STORE: If the bite test shows apples for eating raw need ripening, leave them at room temperature for a day or two or more, and then refrigerate. Apples from cold storage usually have flavor superior to those direct from tree to consumer. Apples like gold and high humidity. Keep in refrigerator and use as desired.

APPLE VARIETIES: For the fruit bowl and to use raw in salads, buy Delicious, Golden Delicious, Cortland, McIntosh, Northern Spy, Stayman, Winesap, Jonathan, Gravenstein, Jon, Grimes Golden (very scarce).

For pie, applesauce and other cooking, buy McIntosh, Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening, Wealthy, Stayman, York, Golden Delicious.

For baking, buy Rome Beauty, McIntosh, Rhode Island Greening, Stayman, York, Jonathan, Wealthy.

This information is only suggestive. There is no universal agreement on which apple varieties should be used for what. Any apple can be used for any purpose but results vary. In general, for apples to be eaten out-of-hand, or in salads, mature fruit is desirable. For cooking, many prefer green or tart apples.

TO SERVE: Apples to eat out-of-hand are a favorite American snack. But use apples for apple pie... apple pudding... apple stuffing for pork fried apples... apple wedges and cheese... wholesome lunchbox treat... apple Pandowdy... Waldorf salad... baked apple. (Researched with the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.)

Outdoor Cooking

A secret to meat that's grilled to perfection is cooking it over a good fire. To get the coals ready, begin at least 30 minutes before you plan to start cooking. Arrange charcoal briquets in a pyramid shape in the center of the firebox.

After ignited, keep briquets in a pile until all are on fire. When briquets are covered with a gray ash and glowing in the center they're ready for cooking.

Then spread in a layer for even heat distribution. They may be just touching or an inch apart.

As a thrifty Scotsman as well as a professional cook, chef Stuart Cumming believes that saving money begins at the supermarket and ends in the kitchen.

His impeccable culinary credentials support his theories. Born and educated in Scotland, Cumming served his apprenticeship at the famed Maxim's in Paris, operated his own restaurant for many years, is a director of the Culinary Institute of America, a school for chefs in Hyde Park, N.Y., and is a consultant for a scotch whiskey firm.

Recently, Cumming, who is on a nationwide tour to introduce scotch whiskey as a flavoring agent in cooking, offered these tips to homemakers intent on getting the most for their food dollars.

— Shop the "specials." Watch the weekly food pages of your local papers for the best buys and shop with a written list in your hand.

— Buy the large size. Buy a six-pound chicken instead of a four-pound bird. The remaining meat is readily used in sandwiches, hash, croquettes, salad or an omelet.

— Check out the house brands at your favorite supermarket. Such products are generally a few cents cheaper than well-known brand names, particularly in the matter of canned goods.

— Be a seasonal shopper. Buy vegetables and fruits as they come into season, adapt your menus to the changing months.

— Do not put leftovers in the back of the refrigerator. Keep them in front of the milk.

— "Doctor" leftovers or basic dishes. For example, a few owners of scotch adds great flavor to chili. If you use whiskey for flavoring, you need only a few ounces whereas a recipe using wine generally calls for at least a half cup and often more.

— Substitute. A salad doesn't have to be made of lettuce and tomatoes. Three-bean salad, with the beans coming from cans, and fresh bean sprouts or spinach with a vinaigrette dressing make delicious alternatives.

— Stretch a main course. Instead of a plain omelet, make one

CHEESY HOT DOG SHORTCAKES

National Hot Dog Month provides the perfect excuse for breaking the habit of serving the predictable hot dog, grilled outdoors and slapped between a bun. Try something different — new possibilities for hot dog connoisseurs are limitless.

Create a new and different kind of summer entree by serving "delightful" hot dogs, cleverly cut to curl and twist in fanciful forms as they are heated.

Serving hot dogs in this unusual manner is also a fun way to celebrate National Hot Dog Month (July). Or for a different kind of children's party, The National Hot Dog and Sausage Council suggests letting youngsters entertain themselves by making their own cut-up meal.

Make 13 to 14 cuts down one side of a hot dog and it will curl into a circle as it heats. Or turn the hot dog slowly, cutting a spiral halfway keep into the meat, for a unusual twist.

For those of you looking for something different, Curly Polynesian Kabobs (skewered hot dogs and pineapple chunks glazed with a sweet and sour sauce) will lend an attractive South Seas touch to your table.

CURLY POLYNESIAN KABOBS WITH SWEET AND SOUR SAUCE

One pound frankfurters

One can (twenty-ounce) pineapple chunks in pineapple juice

One tablespoon cornstarch

Two tablespoons each: sugar, catsup, lemon juice

One and one-half teaspoons soy sauce

One-fourth teaspoon ginger

One large green pepper, cut in 15 squares

Three tomatoes, cut in wedges (optional)

Three and one-half to four cups hot cooked rice

In half of franks, make three parallel even slashes in both ends, cutting all the way through but leaving two inches uncut in center of frank. (slashes allow frank to curl during cooking). In remaining franks, make two crossed slashes downward into each end, as though quartering, but leave two inches uncut in center.

Drain pineapple well, reserving juice. For sauce, stir juice into cornstarch in saucepan. Add sugar, catsup, lemon juice, soy sauce and ginger. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened.

On each skewer, skewer ingredients as follows: green pepper square, two pineapple chunks, frank, two pineapple chunks, green pepper, two pineapple chunks, frank, two pineapple chunks and green pepper. If desired, also add tomatoes.

Push pineapple close to uncut center of franks. Brush entire kabob with sauce. Broil about two minutes per side or grill over hot coals until browned. Brush with remaining sauce before serving. Serve on or with hot rice; accompany with green salad. Makes five servings.

Another attention getter is Cheesy Hot Dog Shortcake, an easy soup and hot dog combination that turns an English muffin into a hearty meal. A sprinkle of dill weed or thyme gives it that extra flavor dimension.

CHEESY HOT DOG SHORTCAKES

Two stalks celery, thinly sliced (about one cup)

One-half cup milk

One tablespoon instant minced onion

One-half teaspoon dill weed or thyme

Six to seven frankfurters

One can (eleven-ounce) cheese soup

One teaspoon prepared mustard

One-fourth cup sliced green olives (optional)

Four to five English muffins or bun halves, toasted

In saucepan, combine celery, milk, onion and dill weed. Cover and simmer for ten minutes, or until celery is crisp-tender. Cut two franks into nine-fourth-inch slices. Slash remaining franks at one-half-inch intervals, cutting about three-fourths through.

Cook franks in simmering water for five minutes, or until curled and heated through. Add soup and mustard to celery mixture; stir until smooth. Add frank slices, heating until bubbly. On each muffin half, place a curled frank; spoon about one-half cup sauce on each. Makes four to five servings.

Alternate franks cooking method; (1) Broil for three to four minutes; (2) Brown in skillet in two tablespoons margarine; (3) Cook in microwave oven, turning twice allowing one and one-half minutes for four franks.

Mushroom Hot Dog Shortcakes: Follow directions above, except substitute cream of mushroom soup for the cheese soup and omit mustard.

Two of America's favorite taste treats are pizza and hot dogs. For a real summertime fast food combination, try Merry Pizza Round, a hot dog cut so it will curl as it heats to fit neatly on a muffin or bun.

MERRY PIZZA ROUNDS

Two cans (eight-ounce each) tomato sauce

Two tablespoons instant minced onion

One-half teaspoon each: oregano, basil, garlic salt

Dash black or red pepper

One pound mozzarella cheese

One pound frankfurters (ten)

Five English muffins, split

For sauce, combine tomato sauce, onion and seasonings in saucepan and simmer for 10 minutes. Cut 10 round thin slices of cheese to fit on muffins, making slices about one ounce each. Grate remaining cheese.

Slash franks at one-half-inch intervals about three-fourths through and shape into circles. Broil two to three minutes or until lightly browned. Place one cheese slice on each English muffin half. Broil two minutes, or until melted. Place one hot dog on each sandwich and top with two tablespoons sauce. Fill center with grated cheese; sprinkle with a generous pinch of oregano. Broil two minutes more. Makes ten servings.

Note: To make recipe with ten to twelve ounces of cheese, use grated cheese under franks instead of cheese slices.

HOW DOES HIS GARDEN GROW? Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Adcock, 330 Wallace Avenue, St. Joseph, inspect his garden several weeks ago (everything is bigger and higher now after the warm weather). Adcock's garden is 30 by 80 feet. He does all his own spade work by hand, especially for the exercise. He builds a new compost pile every year. Although he grows flowers too, his garden includes all kinds of vegetables, ranging from beets and carrots to sweet corn and zucchini. He plants his Idaho potatoes from seed, usually harvesting about four bushels. This is the fifth year he planted Idahos, Adcock says, because they keep better. He uses an organic spray without any poisons. Adcock who was born in Decatur, Ill., and raised on a farm, is retired from Modern Plastics where he worked for 35 years as a tool and die maker and where he was foreman in the injection department. While he was at Modern Plastic, the company was the first to perfect the system of molding lucite, a clear plastic, and during World War II, Adcock discovered to mold lucite for production purposes, especially for the U.S. Navy. One onion, sliced

One green pepper, seeded and cut in strips
Three medium unpared zucchini, cut into one-fourth-inch pieces
One medium eggplant, pared and cut in cubes
Two teaspoons dried leaf basil
One teaspoon dried leaf oregano
One and one-half teaspoons salt
Three teaspoons pepper
Three tomatoes, peeled and cut in wedges Heat oil in large skillet, add garlic, onion, green pepper and zucchini. Cook about three minutes or until onion is tender, stirring frequently. Add eggplant, basil, oregano, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over medium heat 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Add tomatoes wedged; cover and cook five minutes longer or just until tomatoes are heated. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Pack in container with a tight lid to carry to picnic. Makes six servings.
Note: To remove skins from tomatoes, plunge tomatoes one at a time in saucepan of boiling water for about 30 seconds. Remove. Skins will slip off easily.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers Kids, This One's For You

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother of three children and have had it up to here with quizzes that are supposed to show whether I am a "good parent."

My answer is, "I am as good a parent as I can be," and I mean it. My husband and I love each other (Father Theodore Hesburgh's first rule). We do things as a family. We take an interest in our children's school projects and activities. We don't spoil them with gifts or privileges. They work for spending money.

They aren't disciplined with a strap. We use the "talk-it-out" approach.

What then is my gripe? Simply this: As they get older they become more surly, more irresponsible and more disobedient. They argue among themselves, whine, sulk and complain. I used to enjoy doing things for them but now I find it neither satisfying nor rewarding.

I know we are not alone, Ann. Our friends tell us, "If you think they are a handful now, just wait a couple years."

Maybe if the kids would try a little harder, more parents would be able to answer "yes" to that survey you ran recently — "If you had it to do over again would you have had children?"

Here's a quiz for THEM — for a change:

1. When did you last hug your mom without wanting something?
2. When did you last make an attempt to be especially pleasant to your dad without asking him to fix something?
3. Do you say hello to your parents' friends and treat them with respect?
4. Do you take pride in your home or do you leave yogurt cups in the living room and the spills for someone else to clean up? How about the yard? Did you leave your new football out in the rain all night?
5. How about the car? Can a person sit down without getting stuck in a "wad of gum"?
6. When did you last tell your mom the dinner was good and that you appreciate the effort she puts into cooking for you?
7. Are you on time when Mom or Dad offers to drive you somewhere or pick you up? Are you where you are supposed to be or do they have to look for you?
8. When was the last time Mom or Dad had to bring a forgotten lunch or a book to school? Do you ever say thanks for this?
9. When did you last do what you were told without asking why or saying, "Wait a minute," or, "Do I have to?"
10. Are you proud of your mom or dad? Their manners? Could they be proud of you?

Please, kids, we love you. We could have a wonderful time together, but it's a two-way street. You have to do your part. — Florida Mom

ANN LANDERS

Speaking of the car, when was the last time Dad had to pull over to the curb or the shoulder of the road because of the yelling or fighting in the back seat?

6. When did you last tell your mom the dinner was good and that you appreciate the effort she puts into cooking for you?

Better Travel Under Sedation

Every year, there is a childless writer who will set down suggestions on how to travel with children and have a wonderful time.

They paint a picture of serenity... the children's little noses pressed to the windows waving to cows, Mother pointing out national monuments, and Daddy leading the entire group in a moving rendition of "You'll Never Walk Alone."

The latest article to come across my desk is one of the best yet.

"Put pillows, snacks, a change of clothes and some of the children's favorite toys inside the car where they can be easily reached."

"Plan for rest stops about every two hours and if possible take a brief walk on these stops."

"Once back on the road talk about what they saw and did during each stop."

"Use your imagination for other kinds of entertainment. Play guessing games and sing songs."

Doesn't that make you want to go right out and buy a child for your next trip?

Well, friends, you're not talking to an amateur today. I have traveled with children for the last 20 years, been in three first marriages, five encounter groups, written 13 letters to Dale Evans asking for spiritual guidance, and was in analysis two years after I once admitted to abandoning a 10-year-old in a roadside gift shop. I have a few suggestions of my own.

The pillow is a great idea. The first one who whines, "Make him stop looking at me," gets it — right over the face.

As for commercial games and toys, forget 'em. Children usually like to make up their own. There's "Name That Thud." With her head turned toward the no-draft, Mom has to guess what is making Robbie cry out in pain. There's "Window Roulette" where all the bodies in the back seat are airborne trying to get a seat by the two windows. Other cars will often slow down to watch this one.

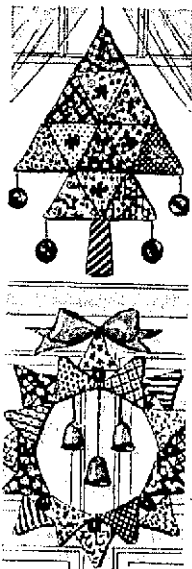

I personally like "Statue," a take-off on the old summer game where Mom reaches over the back seat, gives each a thump and no matter what position they land in, they must remain that way for the next 200 miles.

If you encourage a child to share with you his observations of the last pit stop, be prepared to hear language from a restroom wall that will make your radiator boil over.

Throughout the years I have discovered there is only one way to thoroughly enjoy your travels with children. When you're over-kidnapped, travel under sedation.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My question concerns the reliability of these weight clinics advertised in some magazines.

My daughter started going to one yesterday, and the diet she showed me looks like the weight would fall off without the shot a day they claim helps. They charge $20 a week for the shot.

The diet has plenty of vegetables, chicken only twice a week, and fish once, no red meat.

I would sure appreciate hearing from you on this. I only have one child and her health is my main concern.

DEAR READER — I couldn't give you a blanket endorsement or condemnation of the weight clinics advertised, there are so many.

But I can tell you that if your daughter is paying for human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG) injections commonly used by some weight clinics, she is wasting her money. In a recent study reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, (November 29, 1976) control patients getting salt water injections as placebos did as well as those getting the hormone shots. The diet and physical activity is the thing.

In that regard, unless that diet your daughter is on contains quite a bit of milk or cottage cheese I would guess it is nutritionally inadequate. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet to provide your daughter with a balanced healthy 1200 calorie diet that she can use. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10011.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hate to write this but I want to know if there is such a thing as a wood tick? I have something on my neck that feels like it's going in deeper and every once in a while it is like a needle being pricked into me. Some people tell me they'll kill you if something isn't done. So what can be done?

DEAR READER — Yes, there surely are ticks and they may be in wooded areas. They occur in both the East and the West United States. Some of these, if they are infected, can cause Rocky Mountain spotted fever — even if the tick is from the East.

Regardless of what you have it should be looked at. Only that way can one be certain what it is that is bothering you. Go see your doctor. If it is a tick he can take it out. If it is something else, it may need to be taken out too.

The peak period for "tick fever" is from May to September. In children, the illness may be misdiagnosed as measles to begin with, even though the times of year for measles and Rocky Mountain spotted fever are different. That should provide you with about as good a description of the onset of the illness as you can get, a febrile illness with a rash. Certainly any such illness regardless of what the final diagnosis is, deserves medical attention.

Those who live or work in tick-infested areas can get some protection by having their clothing impregnated with tick repellents.

Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.

make the normal lead of the three spot your partner will either play the queen (an advanced play) or the ace followed by the queen (a normal play).

In the first case declarer will rattle off 11 tricks; in the second case, he will make 12. Either way you will be most unhappy about the whole thing.

If you are playing that you lead second best (not fourth best) from a long suit not headed by one of the four top honors you will open the seven.

Your partner will win with the ace, note the fall of the right from declarer, study the hand a while, see that you have undoubtedly led the top of nothing or second best of nothing, shift to the four of hearts and wind up with the same six defensive tricks a heart lead from your hand would have produced.

We wish we could but space limitations make it impossible to do so. We also find that most readers enjoy working the play out.

Youth Problem Is Gone, But Parks Are Jammed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's 81 state parks apparently have traded a persistent youth problem for a new concern — overcrowding, as visitors flock to the parks in record numbers.

According to officials of the parks division of the state Department of Natural Resources, most of the nine million visitors who have made it through park gates so far this year have behaved very well.

"Our youth problem has gone by us," said division chief Jack Butterfield, recalling the trouble-filled days of the late 1960s and early 70s.

"There was a riotous-type attitude, kids on drugs, but now kids have a lot more respect for both law enforcement officers and public property," Butterfield said.

Although the problem of mischievous young people has eased, it has been replaced at many parks by overcrowding, officials said.

One might assume people head for the campgrounds to get away from the bustle and bustle of crowded cities and to be alone in the wilderness.

But that isn't the way it works out, according to Kerr Stewart, a statistician for the parks division.

"They want to be near other people," he said.

"Let's say you have a campground that has 12 to 15 filled campsites all in one general area. And here's 150 empty sites in another area. Incoming people generally go over in the area where other people are."

Overall attendance at state parks is up about 9 per cent over last year's record turnout, said DNR officials. There are some 14,000 campsites at the combined state parks.

In addition, there are 69 campgrounds in Michigan's three national forests with some 1,750 camping sites, all in the northern part of the state.

Michigan state forests have about 3,200 sites, administered by the DNR's forest management division.

Israelis Mulling Settlement Issue

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli cabinet met today to decide whether to grant full legal status to three Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, a step the United States has decided as an obstacle to peace.

A cabinet committee Tuesday decided in favor of giving such recognition to the three settlements, established by Jewish nationalists in defiance of the previous Israeli government.

The committee's decision required the endorsement of the full cabinet.

The reaction in Washington was swift and unusually stern. State Department spokesman Judding Carter III said the administration was "deeply disappointed" by the committee action. He called settlements in occupied territory "an obstacle in the peace-making process."

But Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, just back from a visit to Washington, said of the committee's stand: "It was a very fine decision... I approve completely."

Begin was to report to the cabinet on his talks with President Carter, including Carter's reported request that Begin halt new settlements in occupied Arab territories until after a Geneva peace conference on the Middle East. Such a conference has been proposed by both Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for October.

Viet Defector Hints Yanks Held

By RICHARD PYLE

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Vietnamese teacher who was a member of the Communist parliament is preparing to tell Congress about reports he heard in Hanoi of missing Americans who are living in jails in Vietnam.

Nguyen Cong Hoan, who fled from Vietnam to Japan in March and arrived in the United States as a refugee two days ago, told a House panel on Tuesday that he had "heard news" about Americans still listed as missing.

Hoan's information on the MIAs was not from any direct contact, he admitted, but were "rumors" from a "completely truthful" source. He said he could not publicly identify the source for fear of putting the source in danger.

"I can only say that I hear some rumors that there are still some Americans living in jail in Vietnam but I cannot be more specific than that," he said.

With his House subcommittee on Asian and Pacific affairs scheduled to take up the MIA question today, Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., reportedly intended to pursue Hoan's report behind closed doors.

Some 1,800 Americans still are listed as missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y., who conferred with Wolff and Hoan late Tuesday, would not divulge whether the former Vietnamese lawmaker had shed any important new light on the MIA question.

"I can only say it warrants further examination by our committee," Gilman said.

Hoan told a House hearing Tuesday that he was elected to South Vietnam's national assembly in 1971 and had a reputation as a critic of then-President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Following Saigon's collapse in 1975, he said he was handpicked by the Communists to serve in the Hanoi-based parliament last year. He said he finally fled the country, leaving his family behind, out of disillusionment with Hanoi's oppression of the people.

"On the heads of my mother, my wife and my children, I swear to tell only the truth as I see it," Hoan solemnly told the Tuesday hearing on foreign human rights violations.

The one-time teacher also said the Communists are peddling arms to insurgents in Southeast Asian countries and have sold $2 billion worth of arms to other nations.

When asked to describe Vietnam's most serious human rights violation, he conjured up an image of the bloodbath that many American officials who supported the Vietnam war predicted. "Everybody can be killed at any time," Hoan said.

The remark about arms sales, he said, came from Viet Bao, a Vietnamese-language newspaper published in the United States. Rep. Dan Fraser, D-Minn., noticed, Hoan's prepared statement made no reference to killings on a massive scale. But Hoan said it had been "an important omission" from the statement, hastily prepared following his arrival in New York.

PIPELINE BLAST DAMAGE: Protective insulation is strewn on ground at site of explosion on trans-Alaska oil pipeline north of Fairbanks. Alaska State Police say they don't know when "several blasts" occurred, but oil movement was not affected. (AP Wirephoto)

Young Miner Is Charged In Alaska Pipeline Blasts

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — A 26-year-old miner has been arrested and charged with setting the explosions that state officials have branded "an amateurish attempt at sabotage" along the Alaska pipeline.

Larry Wertz was arrested Tuesday night as he walked along the Elliott Highway, about 10 miles north of Fairbanks and only two miles from the explosion site.

State troopers said Wertz was carrying a rifle and a pistol in a shoulder holster when he was arrested. Wertz, who works a claim in an old historic gold mining area, has never worked on the pipeline "as far as we know," said Lt. George Pollitt of the state police.

"Information from citizens who had some knowledge of his activities led to his arrest," said Pollitt.

Wertz was charged with malicious destruction of property and held on $100,000 bail.

Pollitt said officers had obtained a search warrant to check Wertz's home, near where he was arrested.

Police suspected that commercial dynamite had been used in the explosions, which caused minor damage to the $7.7 billion pipeline, but they had no idea how much was used, Pollitt said.

The transmission of oil was not interrupted, pipeline officials said. The first crude oil from the Prudhoe Bay oil fields was expected to reach the ice-free part of Valdez late this afternoon, completing an 800-mile journey that began June 21.

Pollitt said officials didn't know when the series of at least five explosions took place in a wooded area north of Fairbanks. They were reported Monday night.

He said, however, that a trooper on patrol in the same general area early last Wednesday reported hearing a series of explosions.

The trooper reported that he investigated but said he could not find the source of the explosions. He did not go onto the pipeline right-of-way, however, Pollitt said.

"We can't conclude that those explosions at 3 a.m. were the same explosions involved in the pipeline, but we are checking that possibility," Pollitt said.

Deputy Commissioner Larry Talbert of the state Department of Public Safety said that wires, batteries and what appeared to be detonators had been found at the blast site.

"It was an amateurish attempt at sabotage or some professionals trying to look like amateurs," Talbert said.

Pollitt said the explosions caused "noticeable dents" in two vertical support columns on an elevated section of the pipeline and tore some 60 feet of insulation from the 48-inch line.

He said the damage indicated that there apparently were at least five explosive charges, one on each of two vertical support columns and three which had been attached to or stuffed into the pipe insulation between the two columns.

It was the latest in a series of problems on the pipeline. There have been four shutdowns totaling 13 days since oil first flowed.

Blues, Hospitals Attack Rules

By MALCOLM JOHNSON, Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state insurance commissioner is predicting a tough fight over implementing new rules he has issued to cut hospital costs in Michigan.

Both Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Michigan and the Michigan Hospital Association have attacked the proposed regulations, which call for such steps as a second doctor's opinion before surgery and reduction of hospital beds.

They say Commissioner Thomas Jones has no authority to issue the rules and contend they already are taking steps to cut costs.

The rules, which Jones said are designed to "hold both the Blues and hospitals' feet to the fire" and force them to cut costs, were announced Tuesday. They must be reviewed by the state attorney general and clear a special legislative committee before taking effect. The procedure could take up to three months.

"It would be naive to think it would be an easy fight," Jones said, noting the health care industry has strong clout in the legislature. But he said he'll discuss the matter with key lawmakers before the rules come up for review.

Jones said hospital costs in Michigan have been increasing more than twice as fast as the cost of living. One result has been higher insurance premiums for the nearly 65 per cent of Michigan residents who subscribe to the Blues.

"If action is not taken to restrain this increase in hospital costs, health insurance programs will soon reach prohibitive levels," Jones said.

"Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan have not dealt with costs in an effective and responsible manner," he added.

Jones' proposal gives him power of approval over any change in the contracts between hospitals and Blue Cross-Blue Shield. The contracts would have to include specific cost-cutting procedures.

"The number of hospital beds must be reduced to assure enough beds at the lowest possible cost."

"Hospital stays must not be longer than medically necessary. A second doctor's opinion must be obtained to weed out unnecessary operations."

TO BRIEF CONGRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell is preparing to brief congressmen on progress of the Justice Department investigation of the South Korean influence-buying scandal on Capitol Hill.

—Lab and X-ray procedures should be used only when necessary.
—A system must be set up to guard against incorrect or false billings.

Officials of the Blues and Michigan Hospital Association have criticized the rules strongly. At an April hearing, they protested that Jones had no legal authority to require such provisions, that it was improper for the state to intrude into the contract, and that they were cutting costs on their own.

"The basic issue is whether the insurance commissioner has jurisdiction," said Patric Ludwig, president of the hospital association. "We don't think he has the authority to do this and don't think he's competent to carry it out."

Filmmakers In Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Hollywood has arrived in Ann Arbor to shoot a film inspired by a string of sex murders. The movie, "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep," is based on the factual account — with some fictional embellishments — of the slayings of seven young Ann Arbor-area women within a two-year period. Former Eastern Michigan University student John Norman Collins is serving a life prison term at Southern Michigan Prison for the 1969 strangling of Karen Sue Behrman, the last of the seven victims. Collins was not charged in the other six slayings. Police chief Walter E. Krasny, on hand as the opening scene of the movie was being filmed Tuesday, was introduced to actress Victoria Bailey, who plays a murder victim. The camera crew, which began work with an aerial shot of the street where one of the victims lived, has scheduled five to six weeks here before moving to other locations.

Regional Planners Clear Two Competing Grants

CASSOPOLIS — The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission yesterday reviewed and "cleared" grant applications by the City of Benton Harbor and Benton Harbor area schools — both competing for the same money from a federal agency.

The applications are a $1.6 million grant sought by the City of Benton Harbor for construction of a marina along the St. Joseph river and a $801,000 grant sought by Benton Harbor area schools for school building renovation.

Both the city and school district are applying for the same public works funds from the federal Economic Development Administration (EDA).

The Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission (SWMRPC) normally reviews grant applications by local agencies and municipalities and either recommends approval of the applications or attaches negative comments to the applications before the grants are forwarded to funding agencies for final approval.

The regional planning commission's action on the two grants yesterday was unusual, according to Thomas Byer, SWMRPC director, because it took neither of its normal actions. "I don't think we ever encountered anything like this before," he said. "We just cleared both grants and will let the EDA decide who will get the money."

The EDA announced earlier that Benton Harbor has been "targeted" to receive $1.6 million of the public works funds. Under the federal EDA regulations, however, the $1.6 million allocation can be split up between the municipality and the school district, if the school district meets certain guidelines. Those guidelines include a requirement that more than 50 per cent of the students enrolled in the school district must live within the city limits.

Edward Trotter, group director of operations and facilities for Benton Harbor area schools, yesterday submitted statistics to the regional planning commission showing that 5,313, or 53 per cent, of the 10,047 students enrolled in the school district this year live in the city.

Representatives from the city and the school system met earlier in an attempt to negotiate a split of the $1.6 million allocation, but City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said the two groups could not arrive at an agreement. That means the EDA will have to make the final decision on the grant.

The distribution of the EDA grants in Berrien county is currently being held up by a temporary restraining order won in federal district court recently by Benton township, which is seeking to recover a $1.195 million grant the EDA originally promised the township.

The township claims the federal agency reneged in its grant to Benton because the EDA erred in the location of an earlier grant to Lake Michigan college. The EDA had assumed LMC was in Benton Harbor and thus turned down what it thought was a second grant for Benton Harbor. When the EDA learned of its mistake, it turned down the township's grant and allocated $1.6 million in Benton Harbor.

In other action, the regional planning commission reviewed and recommended approval of a $277,000 grant application by Van Buren county to build a 14,000 square foot addition to the county social services building. The grant is also being sought from the federal Economic Development Administration.

Also recommended for approval was a $96,000 grant application by Gateway, Inc. to increase staff and equipment at the Berrien Springs rehabilitation center for the mentally and physically handicapped. Gateway is providing $19,320 as a match for the $77,280 grant which is being sought from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The regional planning commission also recommended approval of a $55,354 federal grant to Berrien County Action, Inc. to continue the local anti-poverty agency's food and nutrition program. The application is to the federal Community Services Administration.

Van Buren Reconsiders Use Of CETA Tax Aides

By STEVE McQUOWN
Assistant State Editor

PAW PAW — The Van Buren county board of commissioners last night voted to reconsider a plan to use federal CETA employees to bring assessment card files up to date for the townships.

The unanimous voice vote to rescind a July 12 decision against such a plan came after some 10 to 12 township supervisors attended the county board's monthly night meeting at the courthouse.

The board under board rules on reconsideration, referred the matter to its administrative affairs committee before it comes up for a new vote at the board's Aug. 9 meeting.

Under the plan, the townships would use federally salaried CETA workers to collect property measurements, fill out information sheets and take pictures for township supervisors who would make reappraisals based on information they receive.

Decatur Township Supervisor Joseph Miller told the commissioners that by state law the assessment card files must be up to date by the end of the year.

In urging county cooperation to handle payroll and training of some seven to 10 CETA employees, he said a professional reassessment of the county could cost nearly a half million dollars.

He said the plan presented by township supervisors would cost the county little, and would not take as long and would provide important uniformity of training and property data collection.

Bloomington Township Supervisor George Sage emphasized that the supervisors would be doing the assessing, with CETA employees doing the "legwork."

"I would resent it very much if they (CETA employees) tried to make assessment judgments," Sage told the board.

Main county commissioner objections, voiced July 12 and again last night, were worries about possible costs of unemployment compensation and fringe benefits, and whether property owners throughout the county would cooperate with the CETA employees.

Commissioner James Wellington of Lacola said the updating of the assessment cards would generate tax money for the state and the county and said he supported the plan offered by the township supervisors.

Carl Benedict, Dowagiac, CE-TA coordinator for the Michigan Employment Security Commission in a three-county area, was at the meeting and said "CETA workers could be ready tomorrow" if the board wanted. He said the federal program will pay for most of the fringe benefits.

In other action, the board was told federal officials are still studying the county request for a $259,000 public works grant to help build a $600,000 addition to the social services building, voted to apply for $20,000 from the state's Disaster Contingency fund to help offset $285,871 in county road commission expenses from the Jan. 26-Feb. 12 blizzard; expressed its congratulations to Sheriff Richard Stump for his election as the head of the state sheriff's association; approved $4,135 for recording equipment for the county probate courtroom; and postponed from July 31 to Aug. 15, the effective date of resignation of Roger Hoxie, the county's manpower training director, at Hoxie's request.

Following the two-hour meeting, the county board adjourned to a private session to discuss current contract negotiations with sheriff's deputies and command officers.

Sodus Must Change Dumping Sites

SODUS — Sodus township residents will have to start using the Berrien township landfill for dumping because Benton township has made its dump off limits for non-residents, the Sodus township board announced last night.

Sodus Township Supervisor Clarence Steinke said that Benton officials are beginning to worry about their dump filling up too fast, triggering the ban. Berrien township's dump site is located on Deans Hill road. There is a charge for using the dump.

Township Clerk Virginia Pallas said the township board also voted to ask the county road commission for "no dumping" signs to be posted on Burdett, Alma, Cook and Dewey roads in the township.

She said the signs are to be posted because of a growing problem of people dumping refuse along those roads.

Milwaukee May Go Back To Finals, Report Cards

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A study committee says final examinations and detailed report cards should be reinstated for Milwaukee high school students despite what a committee member calls teacher opposition to the restored workload.

Leon Todd, school board member, said the proposals have been circulating for two years but that school administrators have been sluggish about replying because of teacher opposition.

Final examinations were discarded several years ago during what was called a wave of school board liberalism.

The committee's recommendations include not only final examinations, but shortening grading periods from nine weeks to six weeks, requiring teachers to write comments on individual report cards, and giving students credit for a semester's work rather than expecting them to wait an entire year for credit.

"All of this is an attempt to get back to some sort of way to reinforce children in their education, to tell them they are doing things right or wrong and not just let them glide by," Todd said.

The recommendations are subject to endorsement by Superintendent Lee R. McMurrin and the board.

Todd, who had asked for the study, said he wants the board to reply to the recommendations before the autumn school semester begins.

Principals and other administrators are members of the committee. The recommendation for final examinations is geared to a recent board decision to require reading tests of students before they are graduated from eighth grade.

Officials said a survey indicates parents and even students favor the idea.

"At least (students) recognize what is good," Todd said. "This shows students are willing to support more structure and more learning, even if it means more work."

Under the current program of avoiding final examinations, students cannot be certain of their measured progress, he said.

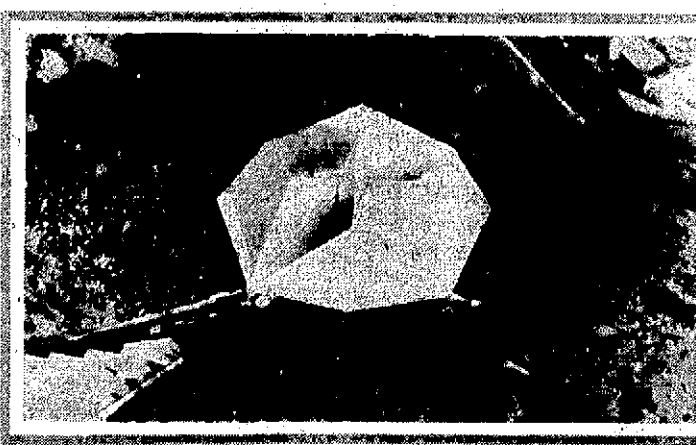

"Suddenly they flunk," he said, "or they get into college or a job and find they don't know everything they should."

"Then they turn to us and say: 'Why didn't you tell us when we were back in school?'" he said.

Although the committee's examinations proposal applies to high school, it suggested that further study be made of similar examinations in junior high, especially after Milwaukee completes its program of racial desegregation.

It said only 42 per cent of teachers in the survey favored the idea, while 72 per cent of junior high students endorsed it along with 60 per cent of parents.

Busnap Started As 'Lark'

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — An idea for a movie plot triggered the real-life kidnapping of 26 children and their school bus driver, according to reports published after surprise guilty pleas by three young men accused of the bizarre crime.

New information about the case's most baffling aspects came forward Tuesday following guilty pleas in Alameda County Superior Court by James Schoenfeld, 25, his brother Richard, 24, and Frederick Woods, 25.

In published reports: —A defense attorney and two of the kidnapers were quoted as saying the crime began as a plot for a movie but evolved from fantasy to real-life terror.

—Mary Schoenfeld, mother of Richard and James, called the kidnapping a "one-time fling" by her boys, whom she said had been "good straight kids."

—The kidnapers' frantic reactions to news that the children had escaped from a makeshift cell were revealed in reports about diary entries and letters by the trio, reportedly used as evidence during sealed grand jury hearings.

Woods and the Schoenfelds changed their pleas to guilty Monday in the ransom kidnapping, which carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment with the chance of parole. But they reaffirmed innocent pleas to five counts of kidnap with bodily harm, which carries a maximum penalty of life in prison with no chance of parole.

The three are accused of abducting their victims at gunpoint on a narrow country road in central California on July 15, 1976, transporting them by van 95 miles north to a Livermore rock quarry and imprisoning them in a buried moving van. The captives barrowed out after nearly 18 hours in the stuffy cell.

"It started out as a lark, as a movie plot," said Lester Gendron, attorney for James Schoenfeld.

James Schoenfeld was quoted Tuesday as telling detectives that discussions about kidnapping for a $5 million ransom began among himself, Woods and an unidentified friend he said was a Hollywood script writer.

"It was just a crazy idea, just a wild idea, and I never thought we'd do anything," Schoenfeld told investigators.

More People Seek State Jobs

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — With memories of a recession still vivid, more people than ever are turning to state government in search of a secure job, according to Michigan officials.

State Civil Service officials said the number of people applying for state classified jobs is climbing all the time. And there are more people on state payrolls than ever, they added.

As of July 1, some 60,770 persons were employed by the state, compared with 48,000 at the end of last year. More than 200,000 have applied for state jobs since Oct. 1, 1976, and the figure is expected to reach 250,000 by the end of the fiscal year on Sept. 30.

In comparison, during a 15-month period ending last Sept. 30, some 132,000 persons applied for civil service jobs, said William Blackburn, a spokesman for the Civil Service Department.

Aides in some state legislative offices say they have stacks of applications from people seeking non-civil service jobs in the capital. The jobs range from legislative pages and secretaries to professional researchers and communications experts.

"We don't advertise and we rarely have any openings," noted Ann Pett, the House Democratic office manager. "In a big year we might replace five people, but we have hundreds of applicants."

She said 20 to 25 persons apply for professional jobs each week.

Blackburn said part of the reason for the influx of civil service job seekers is that the state is giving more exams for the jobs. For instance, more than 20,000 persons already have taken a battery of tests for clerical jobs this year.

If that's true, the number of job applicants should drop again next year when the state is slated to offer fewer employment tests.

The increased number of job applicants and state employees has been accompanied by an increase in workers at the Civil Service Department itself. One year ago the department had 200 employees. Now there are 343 people on the civil service payroll.

The Department of Social Services led the list of new job openings in June, hiring 241 people. The state police hired 169, mental health added 121, corrections 85, and natural resources 155 — although many of those were seasonal workers.

Says Ford Probe Was Unavoidable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Ruff, a former Watergate special prosecutor who has been nominated for a key Carter administration post, says an investigation of then-President Gerald Ford during the 1976 campaign could not be avoided.

The investigation involved allegations that Ford used campaign contributions for personal purposes while he was a member of the House.

Optometrists Get Ad OK

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan optometrists have been given the green light to advertise their services and products, but a leading member of the group predicts few will use the ruling to hawk their wares.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Tuesday a state law prohibiting advertising by optometrists violates the free speech protections of the U.S. Constitution's First Amendment. Kelley cited recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings, including one which gave lawyers the right to advertise.

A lawyer said the decision will lower the cost of glasses and eye examinations to Michigan consumers.

prosecuting attorney for Genesee County.

But Dr. Robert L. Klein of Kalamazoo, president of the Michigan Optometric Association, said he didn't think many of the more than 1,100 licensed optometrists in the state would put the ruling to use.

"I would say there's no widespread plans to advertise. I think the ruling was sought by someone in an isolated case. I see no reason, personally, to advertise, and I don't think other optometrists will, either," Klein said.

William Ballenger, director of the state Department of Licensing and Regulation, said he welcomed Kelley's ruling.

"We've conducted studies, and they indicate there is no correlation between the quality of service and advertising," Ballenger said. "In a profession like this, you won't see price wars."

Although the portion of the law ruled unconstitutional by Kelley specifically prohibited the advertising of prices for eyeglasses, lenses or frames, advertising by opticians who produce the glasses was not forbidden. Shapiro said this created unfair competition.

Shapiro, who said his firm would begin advertising soon, said the advertisements would create "healthy competition."

He also said advertising the prices would help lower-income people who might put off a visit to the optometrist because they felt they could not afford it.

BISHOP SHEEN

CONDITION REPORTED 'STABLE'

Bishop Sheen Has Heart Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen, one of the nation's most prominent Catholic clergymen, has undergone emergency open-heart surgery here.

A spokeswoman at Lenox Hill Hospital said early today that the 82-year-old prelate's condition was "stable, but he's still not out of danger."

The operation was performed July 15, but did not become public until inquiries were made to the hospital Tuesday.

"Bishop Sheen is doing well, considering all things, in particular his age," according to Dr. Michael Bruno, the clergyman's personal physician.

Describing the operation as a "life-saving measure," the doctor said the prelate had not suffered a heart attack prior to the operation.

Bishop Sheen became one of the best-known Catholic clergymen in the 1950's when he had a weekly television program, "Life Is Worth Living." At the height of the show's popularity, he was getting 10,000 letters a day.

He was Bishop of Rochester before he retired in 1965 after 46 years as an active clergyman.

Born May 8, 1895, in El Paso, Ill., he was educated at the Catholic University of America and at the Sorbonne in Paris.

Troopers Bidding Full-Autos Goodbye

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Almost 25 years after their last known use, the Michigan State Police are giving up their sub-machine guns.

"We don't mass kill and so a submachine gun isn't what we want," said Capt. Charles Weirman, commander of the state police training division.

So, about 30 of the automatic weapons will go to a Ford Motor Co. plant to be melted into scrap. After recycling, the scrap will be used in new cars.

Weirman said the weapons came from posts at Ionia, Jackson and Marquette.

"We had them at those posts over the years for possible use in prison riots," he said.

But Weirman said as far as he knows, none have been used since 1952 when there were riots at Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson. He said no one was wounded by the submachine gun fire in that fracas.

Weirman also said sub-machine guns require special training and maintenance. He said they are so difficult to control that in a burst of five shells as many as three might stray far from their target.

Michigan Will Get $521,400 In Forest Fees

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — More than $1.5 million has been allocated to five Upper Midwest states as part of revenue collected by the federal government for use of national forest resources in 1976-77, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced Monday.

Minnesota will receive $830,000; Michigan $521,400; North Dakota $340,425; South Dakota $549,666; and Wisconsin $434,100.

HEADING TO SMELTER: Jerome Thompson, quartermaster of state police post in Lansing, Mich., shows several 45-caliber submachine guns slated to be destroyed in a Detroit foundry. More than 30 of the police-owned guns will be thrown into melting pot because of their age and difficulty in finding repair parts. (AP Wirephoto)

After reading Peter Braestrup's "Big Story: How the American Press and Television Interpreted the Crisis of Tet 1968 in Vietnam and Washington" (New York, Freedom House), I feel like the family of the Californian accidentally lynched in 1854. What do you say when the vigilantes come by, take off their hats, and say, "Sorry about that. We just got the wrong man — nothing personal?"

Braestrup's meticulously accurate study of how the American media handled the Jan. 1968 Tet offensive, forced me to relive three of the worst months of my life, January-March, 1968.

January, 1968, was a horrendous month for the President of the U.S. On the 20th the North Vietnamese besieged Khe Sanh, a major blocking post held by U.S. Marines and ARVN Rangers in Quang Tri province just south of the DMZ. The garrison was vastly outnumbered and people in government and not began meditating on the possibility of an American Dien Bien Phu.

Almost simultaneously the North Koreans seized the intelligence ship "Pueblo" on the high seas and commando raiders almost reached the "Blue House" (the South Korean White House), prepared to blow it sky high.

President Johnson and his aides were meditating on these matters when seemingly the roof fell in. In the early morning hours of Tuesday, Jan. 30, in Saigon (early afternoon in Washington), the Viet Cong hit various locations in the capital city and full-scale attacks were launched on the other major cities of South Vietnam. Hanoi had recommended, and Saigon accepted (despite American military warnings), a week's truce to celebrate the Tet holiday, so half the South Vietnamese Army was on leave when Gen. Giap struck. While initially the assaults on Da Nang and Hue were the most substantial, interest world-wide focused on the battle for the American Embassy.

From the coverage you might have thought a whole North Vietnamese division was employed around the Chancery, and early reports indicated the VC had penetrated the building and held three floors. Curiously this (false) news seemed to overjoy leading elements of the Washington press corps — it just proved that bunh LAM was being again when he talked of improved security.

This attitude led even the tight-lipped Dean Rusk to ask some journalists which side they were on.

Actually a suicide squad of about 20 VC sappers hit the Embassy, raised some hell, never penetrated the fortress-like building, and got killed.

Suffice it that Braestrup's mercurial microanalysis fully justifies Dean Rusk's query.

Bailey's Name Is Off Providence Voting List

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The name of William H. Bailey has been stricken from this city's voting list, blocking his bid to compete in a re-run for the state house seat he lost when he began a Michigan prison term.

The Providence Board of Canvassers voted 3-0 Tuesday to remove Bailey's name because of his felony record. The decision means the South Providence Democrat cannot run in a special election.

"We removed him as a qualified elector," said Leo P. Baronian, chairman of the Board of Canvassers. "We went according to the law."

However, John A. O'Neill Jr., Bailey's attorney, said he would challenge the decision and seek a restraining order to delay an Aug. 16 primary while "his client's" qualifications are decided.

Bailey, who is currently serving a two-to-four year sentence for larceny in Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson, was barred from taking his seat in the Rhode Island House in January because of his felony record. Secretary of State Robert F. Burns vacated Bailey's seat earlier this month and scheduled a new election.

"Rhode Island officialdom goes along with the saying, 'Don't kick a man when he's down,'" remarked O'Neill. "They use baseball bats."

Baronian said Bailey was removed from the voting lists based on a 1973 state constitutional amendment which prohibits convicted felons from voting.

Baronian said the board relied on a confidential report from Atty. Gen. Julius C. Michaelson in deciding to disqualify Bailey. Michaelson said the report contained Bailey's criminal record.

However, City Solicitor Ronald H. Glantz said he had advised the board that Bailey was eligible to vote under Rhode Island law because he had not served prison time in that state.

Maurice Hendel, the Secretary of State's legal counsel, said the board's decision means Bailey's name cannot be included on ballots for the election.

"If he files a declaration of candidacy papers, he won't get nomination papers," Hendel said. "It's that simple."

Bailey submitted candidacy papers Monday for the special election while his attorney filed a legal challenge in U.S. District Court asking that Bailey be granted his House seat.

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and the Congress are reflecting an anti-black, anti-poor sentiment that is delaying programs aimed at solving the problems of minority groups, says the chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus.

Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., in an address Tuesday at the National Urban League convention, also suggested that Carter may be using a different standard in dealing with blacks who criticize him than the one he uses for white critics.

The administration's position on issues of importance to blacks has been debated throughout the convention. National Urban League director Vernon Jordan criticized the administration in a speech earlier in the week, and four top aides to the President have delivered speeches defending Carter's programs.

Mitchell said that under prior administrations "an anti-black attitude developed that is shifting into racism."

During presidential campaigns, candidates used code words like welfare cheats and chiselers and husing to appeal to middle Americans, Mitchell said. "Nobody said black people, but everyone knew what was meant," he said.

Mitchell said the anti-black rhetoric is bearing fruit in Congress. He cited three instances: numerous attempts to attach anti-busing provisions to any type of legislation where it seems feasible, efforts to deny federal funds for school desegregation tools like pairing and clustering and attempts to deny funds for a civil rights survey.

He said the problems that confront blacks and the poor have been put on the back burner in Congress.

"For starters, we look to the White House and the President to turn it around and start moving us toward the front burner," he said.

Mitchell also expressed concern at an exchange Monday between Carter and Jordan. Jordan criticized the President for his handling of the problems of the poor and minorities, and Carter responded that the criticism of his administration could hurt the aspirations of those groups.

Mitchell said Carter has been criticized before by labor, business and Jewish leaders among others, but reacted differently.

If Carter's statement to Jordan was a rebuke, "then it would suggest to me that there is a double standard being used by the White House," Mitchell said.

Two Republican members of Congress, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas and Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, appealed to the audience that included several thousand blacks to support the Republican party.

Dole advised the audience "not to put all your eggs in one basket, or not to put all your peanuts in one basket."

But he conceded, "We may have gotten what we deserved in 1976 as far as black voters are concerned." Dole was the GOP vice presidential candidate last year, and polls have shown that blacks voted overwhelmingly for Carter.

He admitted his party has not given blacks the attention they have deserved. "I'll confess that we haven't done enough. I'll promise that we're going to do more," he said.

Oldest Amvet Dies At 91

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A funeral mass and military burial were scheduled today for Frank O. Todish, 91, oldest member of the national AmVets organization.

Todish died Saturday at his home after moving his lawn. A son said death apparently stemmed from a heart problem.

Todish was honored by the national veterans group in 1970 as its oldest member. He spent 56 years in the Michigan National Guard or working for it.

He joined the National Guard in 1905 at his hometown of Menominee. By World War I, Todish was a captain but because of a hernia was sent home while his unit went overseas.

Todish rejoined the Guard as an enlisted man a few years after moving to Grand Rapids. He finally saw combat action at the age of 54 during World War II, when his Red Arrow Division fought in Asia and the Pacific. He joined in the occupation of Japan.

A few years after World War II, Todish retired from the Guard as a chief warrant officer. But he kept working for the Guard as a civilian employee at state headquarters until 1961.

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — Robert S. Skaggen, 34, former editor of the Marquette Mining Journal, has been named news editor of the Houghton Daily Mining Gazette, said Mrs. J. W. Rice, publisher of the Gazette.

Skaggen, a native of L'Anse, resigned from the Marquette newspaper in a dispute with executives at Panax Corp., the owner of the Mining Journal. Skaggen was editor at Marquette for the past two years. He joined the Journal staff in 1972 as managing editor.

Skaggen graduated from Western Washington State College and began his newspaper career in 1969 as a reporter for the Bellingham, Wash., Herald. He also attended Northern Michigan University for three years before serving a term in the U.S. Navy.

Students planning to take the

In 1922, the United States formally recognized the countries of Albania, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

In 1941, during World War II, Japanese forces landed in French Indochina.

Leghorn Lays One Huge Egg

THORNVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A Leghorn chicken belonging to F.J. Gibbs laid an egg weighing 4½ ounces — nearly three times the usual large egg available in groceries.

Gibbs says he thinks the egg's size is the result of a new additive he's been putting into his chickens' water, which includes a vitamin supplement.

Carter Winding Up Andreotti Talks

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, winding up his talks with Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti, is focusing on the implications of growing Communist party influence in the Rome government.

houses of Congress and later with Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal.

During a 90-minute meeting Tuesday, Carter and Andreotti conferred on global security questions, deferring an exchange of views on Italy's political revolution.

Andreotti's Christian Democrats scored a narrow election victory over the communists over a year ago, but his party's mandate was so thin that one U.S. official said, "At the time, we didn't give him any more than six weeks in power."

In a toast following a White House state dinner Tuesday night, Carter noted that Italy's economic and social problems had reached crisis proportions a year ago. He said Andreotti's leadership has enabled Italy to make progress that is "impressive indeed."

Other U.S. officials also speak admiringly of Andreotti's accomplishments, but wonder how long the Communist party, Italy's second largest, can be denied a cabinet-level role in the government.

Among U.S. officials, there are widely divergent views on the implications of direct communist participation in the Italian government.

These views range from extreme alarm, on the one hand, to one of almost total indifference on the other.

Carter's own attitude is somewhere in between these two points of view. One official said the President is not different to growing communist power in Italy but will do nothing to interfere with that country's democratic processes.

Defense Begins Its Case Today

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — The prosecution concluded its case in the Lee Rogers Newman Jr. murder trial yesterday and the defense is to begin its presentation today as the trial enters its third week. Newman is on trial in Van Buren Circuit court on murder and assault charges stemming from a shooting in South Haven last February. Jenise Lee Perry, 17, of South Haven, was killed in the incident at a home in that city's public housing project. According to the Van Buren prosecutor's office, five defense witnesses are expected to be called today. The two witnesses who testified yesterday were a ballistics expert from the state police crime laboratory in Holland and Obie Franklin, 29, of South Haven, one of three people wounded during the shooting.

The charge against Newman of assault with intent to commit murder is in connection with the wounding of Franklin. The prosecution has contended that inside a house at 410 Cable street, Miss Perry was killed with a bullet fired by Newman from outside the home. Van Buren Prosecutor and S. Hamlin Jr. has said he intends to prove that Newman, 26, fired the bullet in an attempt to kill Franklin, who also was outside the house.

Hamlin said it is possible that the defense case could be concluded today and that the case could possibly go to the jury yet today.

Chomet Ouster Irks Milliken

DETROIT (AP) — The dumping of consumer advocate Charles Chomet from the board of Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield was a mistake, according to Gov. William Milliken.

But he has not decided what, if anything, to do about it. Chomet was rejected for another term on the board by a vote of 41-39 last week.

He has often clashed with other board members.

Insurance Commissioner Thomas C. Jones, whose nominee Chomet was, had until Aug. 15 to decide whether to put Chomet up again or nominate someone else.

"I frankly feel very strongly about this guy," said Milliken. "He serves a good purpose. He's a good needle maker who goes out and asks questions that ought to be asked."

"I don't know at this point what would be appropriate," the governor continued. "There's a very good chance I won't do anything. There's a good chance I will do something."

Milliken spoke in Lansing in an interview with the Detroit News printed today.

Milliken said there was a chance the board might reverse itself, but board Chairman James Windruff said that was not likely.

California Fire Out Of Control

homes. A bystander, Mike Jones, said he was down in the city and came up with a friend to watch when he saw a house on fire.

"So I grabbed a hose, climbed on the roof and started spraying and the house was gone in 10 minutes," Jones said.

His friend, Karen Kast, who also helped fight at the house, said people were confused.

"The woman whose house Mike saw burn just kept wandering around wondering which candle holder to use and the man stood on the patio saying 'I'm not going to take anything,'"

Finally, however, when the flames crept closer, the family grabbed belongings, piled them into their car, and fled.

Police said they had received reports of looting and would arrest anybody who was not authorized to be in the area.

Dennis Orbus, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman, said the blaze was fueled by chaparral brush and eucalyptus trees, both full of dry sap. He said the fire started in the Los Padres National Forest and definitely was man-caused.

"It's completely out of control. We have no idea when we will have containment," Orbus said.

said, as firemen attempted to save homes nestled in the mountain foothills.

The fire knocked out power in the city of 75,000 persons and emergency generators were being used. At least one injury was reported, but there were no immediate deaths.

Nighttime temperatures hovered in the upper 80s as firemen attempted to save homes nestled in the Santa Inez foothills, an area of tree-covered estates.

Fire officials said the area was cordoned and residents were fleeing with their possessions, including some riding horses which were panicked by the fire and confusion.

"The brush up there is so dry it's almost explosive and the wind is carrying firebrands as far as several hundred yards ahead of the front," said Rochester.

Much of the vegetation in the area is eucalyptus, a tree with a high oil content that oile eyewitness said "burns so bright and quick it almost explodes."

Today In MICHIGAN

Dentists Hit On Testing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The seven dentists on the state Board of Dentistry are breaking the law by accepting $150 a day plus expenses for testing new dentists, the state Ethics Board says. The practice amounts to profiting from their public positions, the board said in an opinion released this week. The opinion means the dentists can collect their usual $35 a day while on Board of Dentistry business but cannot accept the $150 a day they have been paid while conducting the three-day tests. The dentists conduct tests in Michigan and other states under a 14-state agreement by the Northeast Regional Board of Dental Examiners. The dentists average four such exams each year. The Ethics Board opinion is only advisory, but an assistant attorney general for the dental board said there is no doubt that the board members will abide by it.

Oldsters' Deadline Aug. 15

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Senior citizens around the state have until Aug. 15 to apply for money to help them pay overdue utility bills. State officials said that those 65 or older who live on limited incomes can qualify for the home heating assistance program. About a third of all senior citizens in Michigan qualify for the $13.2 million program. The elderly still in arrears on last winter's high utility bills could get up to $200. Those who have paid their bills still could qualify for $50 as compensation for the financial sacrifice. County Social Services offices are handling the applications.

He's Got His Job Back

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — An employee who was fired for criticizing county politicians has won back his job with the Macomb County Health Department. The employee, John Pilarski, 32, was dismissed July 28, 1976 after writing several letters to a local newspaper, the Macomb Daily, blasting county politicians. Pilarski may be back on the job as soon as Friday, said his attorney, Thomas Bleakley. Bleakley said county officials agreed Tuesday in an out-of-court settlement of a pending lawsuit that grants full back pay and fringe benefits to Pilarski, plus $57 in court costs. That settlement stemmed from a ruling July 7 by the state Court of Appeals ordering a new hearing for Pilarski and strongly implying that the firing violated his constitutional rights.

Judge: Add 1 Carferry

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The Chessie System has been ordered by a federal judge to add another car ferry across Lake Michigan for the period from Aug. 1 through Sept. 5. U.S. Dist. Court Judge Wendell Miles said he ordered addition of the third car ferry after the railroad failed to show it could provide adequate service using just two vessels. The railroad has been using only two of its ferries this summer after claiming it suffered millions of dollars in losses by operating the vessels on Lake Michigan. Chessie System car ferries sail between Ludington, Mich., and Milwaukee, Manitowish and Keweenaw.

Labor Dept. Wants Power

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Department of Labor has urged the legislature to give it full responsibility for enforcing Michigan's job safety act. The occupational safety and health act is jointly enforced by the departments of labor and public health. But the labor department's construction safety standards commission told lawmakers in a letter that giving its agency sole power would improve protection of workers. The labor department is responsible for preventing injuries in the work place, while the health department monitors the quality of air and toxic gas or fumes. Labor Director Keith Mohr said that combining the functions in his department would improve the efficiency of the program.

'Net' Escapee Captured

MANISTIQUE, Mich. (AP) — An inmate who escaped from the Saginaw County jail by sliding from the jail roof on a volleyball net has been apprehended at an Upper Peninsula hideout. James Burns, 26, was arrested at a home near Manistique Tuesday after state police received a tip. Burns, from the state of Washington, was awaiting trial in U.S. District Court in Bay City on charges of counterfeiting and bond-jumping. He and another inmate escaped Sunday down their make-shift ladder. The second escapee, Randy Weaver, 21, of Birch Run, remained at large. Burns was lodged in the Schoolcraft County jail pending his return to Saginaw.

Ex-Policeman To Be Tried

CORENNA, Mich. (AP) — A former Detroit police officer has been ordered to stand trial on an open charge of murder in the slaying last spring of an Owasco mother of four, Charles Peltier, who also worked as a deputy for the Macomb County Sheriff's Department, was bound over for trial Tuesday by Judge Bruce Fox. Peltier, 38, had been dating Carolyn Newell for about three years before her death, police said. Mrs. Newell's body was found on March 13, shot twice in the head. Peltier, who had been living in Mount Morris, north of Flint, was held without bond in the Shiawassee County Jail.

Windows Broken At Buchanan School

BUCHANAN — Buchanan school officials told police here yesterday that 13 windows at the high school had been broken, causing an estimated $500 damage.

Police said it appears that a slingshot was used to hurl stones through the windows.

It was the second such report received by police yesterday. Joe Garbert, owner of Sexton's Furniture Co., 102 West Front street, told police that a plate glass window and door at the store as well as the windshield of a store truck had all been damaged.

Police said it appears the glass had been damaged with BBs. No damage estimate was available.

Professions Support New Charter For Niles

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
NILES — An overwhelming majority of this city's professional community has endorsed a proposed new city charter.

The statement was released by the Save Our City committee, a group supporting the charter. Below is the full text of the statement:

"The statement which follows has been endorsed by over 95 per cent of those persons who provide professional services in the City of Niles — the group comprising the doctors, lawyers, dentists and accountants of our city. Such profession was canvassed by a member of that profession. While some of this group live outside of the city, nearly all own property and earn their livelihood within the city. We stand ready to discuss the statement with any of our patients or clients.

"Many of us are disturbed by the mounting concern being expressed, both publicly and in private, by many of the heads of our local industry, questioning the capacity of our city to cope with today's problems. A substantial number of the business community express the same concern.

"For these and other reasons, we are of the opinion that Niles can no longer afford to remain the only 'city' in the State still operating under the archaic Fourth Class Cities Act, adopted in 1895 and now repealed by the Michigan Legislature. Further, we believe that the multi-million dollar business of our city can be better planned, better supervised, better managed and more effectively and efficiently operated with a full-time, trained manager.

"The facts disclose that since 1912, following adoption of the Home Rule Act in 1909, cities throughout the State of Michigan have switched to and retained a council-manager form of charter such as that proposed for adoption on August 2 in Niles. It is also this form of charter that is in effect in hundreds of the best-run cities in the United States and in every province of Canada. Further, we understand that since World War II this form of charter has been adopted each year by some 75 or more cities in this country and is today the predominant form of city government in the United States. It would seem apparent, therefore, that a council-manager form of city government is not an experiment but a form that has been tested and proved. The concept of full-time planning and management is not unique to the operation of a city — it is basic to our American free enterprise system.

Third Article Tells Stand Of Professional Groups
On Tuesday, Aug. 2, Niles city voters will be asked to approve a new charter for the city. The proposed charter would radically change operation of the city in the southeastern corner of Berrien county. Today, in the third of a series of six articles, the city's professional community speaks out.

full-time supervision, planning and management accomplish the following:

- "1. No increase in taxes (the proposed charter continues the same 15 mill limitation).
- "2. More and better municipal services for your tax dollar.
- "3. A better directed, less confusing and more satisfying relationship between city employees and those they look to for management, direction and compensation.
- "4. A city administration that because it is planned, organized and full-time, can more promptly and effectively respond to the needs of the people it serves.
- "5. Long-range planning and coordination of the city's growth and development both within the city and in relation to the townships and municipalities surrounding the city.

"We are not so naive as to believe that a new charter will accomplish miracles, but we do believe that a council-manager charter can provide for Niles many of the advantages which have caused residents of so many other cities to adopt and retain this form of charter.

TOMORROW Opponents of the charter voice their opinions.

NILES LIBRARY: Board governing Niles community library would continue to function under proposed new charter for city because it covers area beyond city limits, and involves representatives from other municipality. Most other boards would be eliminated, however. (Staff photo)

Hartford Gets $1.7 Million U.S. Grant

HARTFORD — The city of Hartford has received a $1.7 million grant to help pay for construction of its $2.45 million sanitary sewer improvement project. Approval of the grant from the federal Environmental Protection Agency was announced through the office of U.S. Congressman Dave Stockman. Tom Deneau, of the St. Joseph engineering firm of Wightman & Associates, said he expects a state grant of same $113,350 to be approved soon. The engineering firm is the project developer for the city.

All that remains before construction can be started is approval by the state municipal finance commission for the city to sell $173,000 in bonds for its share of the construction costs. The project includes construction of a new sewer treatment plant and an interceptor line. Pearson Construction Co. of Benton Harbor has the $1,568,393 contract for the sewer treatment plant and Yerington-Harris of Benton Harbor has the $362,412 contract for construction of the interceptor line.

KNAPP GETS NINTH WIN

White Sox Blast Tigers

By FRED GOODALL
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — There was nothing masterful about the Chicago White Sox victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night. Instead, the triumph was just typical for the leaders in the American League West.

Hitting has become the trademark of the 1977 White Sox and Tuesday night's game was another which featured a hard-hitting, relentless assault against opposing pitchers.

"Too much offense," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk after watching his team's three-game winning streak snapped by an 8-3 loss. "Just too much offense."

Richie Zisk and Chet Lemon were the stars in the latest assault. Zisk drove in five runs with a triple and a home run and Lemon added two more with his 11th homer of the season.

"I popped it pretty good didn't I?" said Lemon, who stood at home plate and watched his towering shot land in the left-centerfield seats in the fourth inning. "Why was I standing there? It's something we all do when we hit one pretty good. We're not trying to embarrass the pitcher. We just enjoy watching them go."

The Sox have been watching them go at a record pace for the team. In 95 games, they have hit 121 homers, just 17 short of the team record of 138 set by the 1961 Sox and equaled by the 1971 team.

"Other teams are finding out that we've got nine hitters in the lineup and not just two or three," said Lemon. "It makes it hard for pitchers because they can't let up on anybody. Men in the bottom of the lineup are just as likely to hit a home run as anybody else."

Detroit took a quick 2-0 lead against St. Joseph's Chris Knapp, 9-4, when Tito Fuentes singled with one out in the first and Rusty Staub followed with his 12th home run of the season. But after the first, Knapp stymied the Tigers on just one hit until he ran into problems in the eighth and had to give way to reliever Dave Hamilton. "Hamilton came on with the bases loaded and one out and put down the rally, but not before walking in the Tigers' final run."

"I didn't panic when we got behind because I know—just like every other pitcher on the staff knows—that we're going to score some runs," said Knapp, who gave up five hits in 7 1-3 innings while striking out eight and walking two. "Staub hit a pitch that got away from me. It was a fast ball right down the middle."

Zisk began his heroics in the third when his 20th homer, a three-run shot off loser Dave Roberts, 4-10, erased a 2-1 deficit and sent the Sox on their way. His two-run triple in the eighth capped Chicago's offensive effort.

"He's been struggling all year," Houk said of Roberts who yielded six runs on seven hits in three innings. "He pitches one good game and then struggles for two of three."

Jack Morris, making his major league debut, relieved Roberts in the fourth and held the Sox scoreless until the eighth.

"I thought he (Morris) looked great," said Houk. "His encouraging. I've got plans to start him in at least one game and after that I'll decide if we'll use him as a starter or a reliever."

Reuschel Silences Reds

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Reuschel silenced slumping Cincinnati on five hits to become the first 14-game winner in the National League as the Chicago Cubs blanked the Reds 3-0 Tuesday.

Jose Cardenal cracked a home run and a double, scoring two runs, to back Reuschel, who never has won more than 14 games in five previous seasons with the Cubs.

Reuschel, 14-3, hurled his second straight shutout and stretched his string of shutout innings at home to 34 2-3.

The world champion Reds, who didn't get a runner past first base until the sixth inning, dropped their eighth straight game and are just one game above .500 at 48-47.

The Cubs struck early against loser Fred Norman, 9-7. Cardenal started the first with a double and scored on Larry Blitner's triple down the right field line.

Cardenal hammered his second home run of the season and first since April 27 in the fifth.

After Cincinnati put runners on second and third with two outs in the sixth but failed to score, the Cubs scratched out a run in their half of the inning.

Jerry Morales lifted a pop fly that fell among three Reds in short right. He slid under the tag for a double. Morales moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Steve Oniveros and scored when George Mitterwald legged out a grounder to deep shortstop.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh's National League East hopes have taken a twist in two directions.

Pitcher John Candelaria scattered four hits before being literally knocked out of the game in the eighth inning as the Pirates beat the Houston Astros, 3-2. Candelaria, 11-3, was hit in the left forearm when Wilbur Howard smashed a line shot back to the mound.

"I thought something was broken, the way he went down," said Rich Gossage, who replaced Candelaria on the mound. "He didn't even go after the ball when he was hit. Usually your first instinct is to look around for the ball and try to make a play. Then you fall down or crawl to the dugout."

A team spokesman said X rays taken following the game were negative. The left-hander had wanted to wait until today, but was directed to seek immediate medical attention by General Manager Pete Peterson.

But if the Pirates were upset by Candelaria's accident, they were lifted by Gossage's relief performance.

Catcher Ed Ott, whose seventh-inning home run proved to be the game-winner, was impressed by the reliever, who had been sidelined for a week with a pulled muscle in his right cage.

"Gossage was throwing harder than I've ever seen him throw," Ott said.

In other NL games Tuesday, St. Louis defeated Atlanta 4-2, New York crushed San Francisco 8-3, Los Angeles and Philadelphia split a doubleheader, Los Angeles winning the opener 5-2 and Philadelphia the nightcap 5-1, and San Diego defeated Montreal in the opener 4-3 while Montreal took the 15-inning nightcap 5-2.

An inside-the-park home run by Keith Hernandez sparked a three-run rally in the first inning as St. Louis defeated Atlanta. Three Cards pitchers combined for a nine-hitter with Bob Forsch, 13-4, picking up the victory before leaving with a sore back.

Home runs by Greg Luzinski, Bake McBride and Terry Harmon backed Jim Lonborg's two-hitter to give Philadelphia a 5-1 victory over Los Angeles after the Dodgers had won the opener by an identical score.

Glenn Burke snapped a 1-1 tie with a run-scoring double in the seventh inning of the first game. Two more Dodger runs scored in the inning on a wild pitch and a passed ball.

In the nightcap, Luzinski slugged his 22nd home run, McBride slammed his seventh and Harmon his second. Both McBride's and Harmon's homers were two-run shots.

Three hits each by Len Randle and Felix Millan paced New York to its victory over San Francisco. Winner Pat Zachry, 5-11, collected two hits of his own and gave up 10 hits, including Willie McCovey's 481st career homer, before he was relieved in the eighth.

A pinch double by Tony Perez in the top of the 15th inning snapped a 1-1 tie and led Montreal to its victory over San Diego and a split of their twilight doubleheader. The Padres won the first game 4-3 on Gene Richards' RBI single in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Foreman Back With Vikings; Brown Retires

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington Coach George Allen's troubles continue to mount, Minnesota mentor Bud Grant had his biggest headache eliminated Tuesday.

Allen lost what he called "the best back I ever coached" Tuesday when seven-year veteran Larry Brown announced his retirement. Allen also has the problem of holdouts Mike Thomas and Frank Grant, two of the Redskins' key performers.

Meanwhile, Bud Grant regained the best running back he has coached when Chuck Foreman agreed to a two-year extension of his contract.

Brown, 20, led the National Football League in rushing in 1972 with 1,218 yards as he led the Redskins to the Super Bowl. But he took a tremendous physical beating throughout his career as he averaged 298 rushing attempts for his first six seasons. That heavy toll caused his premature retirement.

"It was physically impossible for me to endure another football season," said Brown. He will remain with the club in public relations, working with youth and charities.

Allen said Thomas and Grant, who together accounted for more than half the team's total offense last season, would be fined $500 a day for missing two days of training camp. They were expected to report Monday but did not show up until Tuesday evening.

Foreman got his raise in pay from the Vikings after a bitter contract dispute. The All-Pro running back first complained about his contract before last January's Super Bowl. He became so disenchanted with Minnesota management that he vowed "never to play for the Vikings again under any circumstances."

Elsewhere in NFL training camps, Cincinnati All-Pro cornerback Lemar Parrish said he will press for a trade if the Bengals don't give him a large salary increase.

Parrish reportedly is asking for a salary in excess of $100,000 per season. Baltimore also is having difficulty with holdouts. Colts' General Manager Dick Zymanski noted that wide receiver Roger Carr, cornerback Nelson Munsey, defensive end John Dutton and offensive tackle George Kuntz might play out their options and become free agents after the 1977 season.

Oakland Raider defensive back George Atkinson, who last week lost a $2-million slander suit against Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll, was banished from the camp for failing to pay $2,000 in fines stemming from alleged dirty plays.

Four teams did manage to sign key players Tuesday. Cleveland inked defensive tackle Jerry Sher to six one-year contracts. Atlanta signed punter John James, who led the NFL last year with a 42.1 yard average, to a series of one-year contracts. Linebacker D.D. Lewis came to terms with the Dallas Cowboys, signing several one-year pacts. And Philadelphia signed running back Tom Sullivan and defensive lineman Manny Sistrunk to two one-year contracts apiece.

Stowers New Coloma Coach

COLOMA — Dave Stowers has been appointed new head baseball coach at Coloma. He replaces Bill Leedsy, who resigned the post at the end of the school year. Stowers, 27, is graduate of Northern Michigan and served as junior varsity baseball coach last season.

Last Crew Awarded Odd Meal

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Sherry, pickles and fudge: that was the menu for the last boat across the finish line in the Port Huron to Mackinac Island yacht race.

The 33-foot sloop Hurvey's Bristol Cream — named for a brand of sherry — was awarded the "pickle trophy" for the dubious honor of finishing the race at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday.

That was more than 59 hours after the race began, and nearly 24 hours after the first boat across the line, Sassy, arrived here.

Since the last skipper traditionally has to give an excuse, Skipper Tom Harvey of St. Clair Shores, Mich., gave this one: "We took an extended scenic tour of Lake Huron."

WALK HAPPY

BRAVING THE BRAWN: Danielle Brisebois, 8, isn't giving an inch in this discussion of a close-called play with Jeff Starr, 13, during a break in ballgame between the casts of Broadway's "Annie" and Hollywood's "Bad News Bears" Tuesday in New York's Central park. Jeff didn't get to first base with tiny Danielle, who learned how to overcome big odds in the role of an orphan in the musical "Annie." But the Orphans were left out in the cold by the Bears, who won 6-2. (AP Wirephoto)

CARVER AWARDED: Joe Carver of Benton Harbor was given the 1977 Duffy Daugherty Award as the Best Spartan of the Year at Tuesday's southwestern Michigan Spartan Boosters Club golf outing. The award is given each year to the man who has done the most work for the local boosters club. Carver, (third

Rogers Optimistic Wilson, Shafer Can Help Spartans

By JACK WALKER
Staff Sports Writer

And Michigan State football coach Darryl Rogers is counting on Edgar Wilson and Charlie Shafer to play prominent roles as pass catchers this season.

That may sound somewhat strange since the two former southwestern Michigan All-Staters played a combined total of just four minutes of football for the Spartans last fall. Wilson, of Dowagiac, was completing a four-year basketball career with MSU, while Shafer, from Lakeshore, was bothered by knee problems.

But Rogers is figuring on both playing major roles in Michigan State's success this season.

"I expect both Edgar and Charlie to play," said Rogers, at Point O' Woods for Tuesday's annual Southwestern Michigan Spartan Boosters Club golf outing. "I'm counting on them in the program. They will both be an intricate part of our offense.

I wouldn't want to lose either."

Even though Michigan State finished with a disappointing 4-6 record last year, the Spartans did lead the Big Ten in passing offense.

Ed Smith, then a sophomore, completed 132 of 257 passes for a school record 1,740 yards and 13 touchdowns. Michigan State had three pass receivers in the Big Ten's top 10 in Kirk Gibson (39 catches for 748 yards), Eugene Byrd (31 for 539 yards), and Mark Brummer (24 for 272 yards).

Wilson, a 6-5, 200-pounder, is challenging Gibson and Byrd for a starting split end spot, while Shafer is hopeful of beating out Brummer at tight end. And both are feeling quite well according to Rogers.

"Gibson and Byrd may be back, but they're just two receivers," Rogers said. "We usually use three or four split ends per game. Also, Byrd had ankle surgery during the off-season and hasn't even returned yet."

This is Wilson's first year of football with MSU, but Rogers is confident that it won't make any difference.

"Edgar is a fine athlete," he explained. "That's first and foremost. He's a good receiver and may help us on the outside. We have a need for it."

"If we were stocked and didn't need any more outside receivers it might have made a difference. But we have need and Edgar has the ability to help us."

"He has excellent hands and good height. Because he played basketball, he has a great sense of touch. I felt during spring practice that he has the ability to play in the Big Ten as an outside receiver."

Shafer, on the other hand, is healthy again and was impressive during the spring workouts.

"Last spring was the first time Charlie has survived and stayed healthy," Rogers said. "And he improved tremendously."

ously. If he improves this fall as much as he did during the spring, there's no reason why he can't be a starter.

"He improved his speed and he improved his blocking during the spring. He's always been able to catch the football and run good pass routes. His biggest problem has been in blocking. Besides being healthy, another thing which has helped Charlie is that his body is jelling out (164, 224 pounds)."

Offense is not where MSU needs improvement if it is to better last season's losing record, however. The Spartans were last in the Big Ten in total defense a year ago.

"We averaged five yards per snap last year," Rogers said. "We moved the football. We had no problems offensively."

"We need to improve our punting and defense. If we can get any improvement, on defense, we're bound to be a better football team."

Besides Wilson and Shafer, one other former southwestern Michigan player is listed on the Spartan roster. Dick Ott of Bridgman is presently the team's second string center. Ott, a 6-3, 231-pounder, will have a tough time cracking the starting lineup, however. First-string center Al Pitts earned second team All-Big Ten honors last year.

Joe Carver of Benton Harbor was given the Duffy Daugherty Award for 1977 as the Best Spartan of the Year. The award goes annually to the man who has done the most work for the local booster's club. Carver is an original member of the local group.

Barnes Celebrates 25th Birthday In Jail

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Marvin Barnes is 25 today. All he really wants is to get out of jail.

"I'll have to celebrate it here. I've already accepted what I have to do. I have to do the time. I'm paying my debt to society for making my mistake. It's kind of a downer. But I can deal with it."

Barnes, the talented forward of the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association, is spending the off-season in the Adult Correctional Institute in Cranston, R.I.

Barnes, who was on probation for an assault charge, was jailed May 16 for violating his probation after he was found carrying an unloaded gun in a Detroit airport last year. He is eligible for parole Sept. 15, four days before the Pistons open their training camp.

"I was put in max (maximum security) for 90 days," Barnes said by telephone. "I was there with rapists,ifers, bank robbers and killers. I knew some of them would be preying on me because I had money and was a pro basketball player. The old cons, the flam flam men, said some of them will kill you for a dollar.

"But I handled myself well. I came out unscathed. And I didn't have to pay anybody off. A few of the guys I knew from the street (Barnes lived in Providence, R.I. and went to Providence College) looked after me."

"I was told I was gonna get dumped (killed) or stabbed. I told those guys, 'If you bring it, you better bring it good.' I had my arguments in max. I didn't like to see the strong guys prey on the weak guys. I broke up about three fights. I wasn't supposed to. But that's my nature."

"You find out who your real friends are when you're in jail. I'll never forget the brothers, black and white, who helped me. I've promised myself when I get out that I won't forget them. I'll help them anyway I can."

"I guess you could say I was a leader, some of the men looked up to me. I tried to get a little unity thing going. I was president of the Afro Society. I helped them run their organization. The organization allowed the black brothers to present a louder voice on things like tutors and better conditions."

Barnes is in minimum security now, lifting weights, playing basketball and working toward the degree he didn't get when he left college in 1974.

"I'm not out carousing. I'm studying and going to bed early. At this point in my life, maybe I needed some kind of discipline, something to slow me down. I appreciate things a whole lot more now."

"I'm 25 now. I'm ready to go ahead in life and accept my responsibilities. I know I'll be a success. The Pistons have been in my corner all the time, sending me fruit, newspapers and money, telling me that they're counting the days, too."

"My season with them was probably my worst as a professional player and a person. I want to prove to them my worth. They're gonna get their reward this season."

"I'm gonna pay off. I'm gonna help them win a championship."

TWO BACK OF ORIOLES

NY Win Secures Martin's Job

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Yankees Manager Billy Martin is a man who recognizes an understatement when he hears one.

Martin was asked whether Tuesday night's 5-4, 10-inning victory over Baltimore had solidified his position at the helm of the Yankees.

"He repeated the question rhetorically, then answered: 'That's the understatement of the year.'"

"But I don't want to talk about that situation any more," he added after the Yankees moved to within two games of the American League East Division-leading Orioles. "I just want to concentrate on winning the pennant."

Ironically, it was Reggie Jackson, the team member with whom Martin has most openly feuded, and pinch-hitter Cliff Johnson who won the game for the defending AL champion Yankees.

Jackson, after singling home a run in the fourth, led off the bottom of the 10th with his 17th home run of the season. Johnson's two-run belt in the ninth tied the game. Johnson was batting for shortstop Buckey Dent, who got the Yankees' other run with a solo homer in the sixth.

Sparky Lyle, 8-3, got the victory after relieving in the ninth. Former Yankee Scott McGregor, 1-2, the fourth Orioles pitcher, got the loss.

In other American League games, Boston nipped Milwaukee 4-3. Texas clinched Toronto 14-0. Chicago beat Detroit 8-3. Seattle dunned Minnesota 9-7 and Oakland edged California 2-1.

Boston right-hander Don Aase, a 22-year-old rookie called up from Pawtucket of the International League Tuesday morning, struck out 11 and scattered nine hits in his debut.

Rick Miller singled home the winning run in the seventh to snap Boston's three-game losing streak. Jim Rice got his 26th home run of the season in Boston's three-run third inning.

Bert Blyleven, 10-9, hurled a four-hitter and was backed by 17 Texas hits as the Rangers handed the Blue Jays their sixth loss in a row and their 16th in their last 20 games.

Karl Bevacqua drove in three runs with a home run and a single, while Willie Horton, Chandel Washington and Bert Campaneris each drove in two runs.

Dan Meyer drove in five runs, three on his 14th homer of the season, as Seattle held on to snap a three-game losing streak.

Rod Carew went two-for-five with a three-run homer in the fifth, to maintain a .380 average. Mike Cullage also homered for Minnesota.

Glenn Abbott, 7-7, went the first five innings, and Diego Segui, the fifth Mariners pitcher, got his second save of the season. Paul Thordmorsgard, 87, left in Seattle's three-run first inning and got the loss.

ning, and left-hander Vida Blue, 10-11, pitched a four-hitter to spoil Frank Tanana's bid for win No. 13.

The Angels' ace left-hander, now 13-7, had a two-hit shutout going into the eighth. But a single by Tony Armas and a walk set the stage for Murray's bases-clearing triple.

Blue retired the last 16 batters in his 11th complete game of the year.

Mack West Scrambled

Fairplain, behind the four-hit pitching of Richard Maxwell, dropped Decatur 3-2.

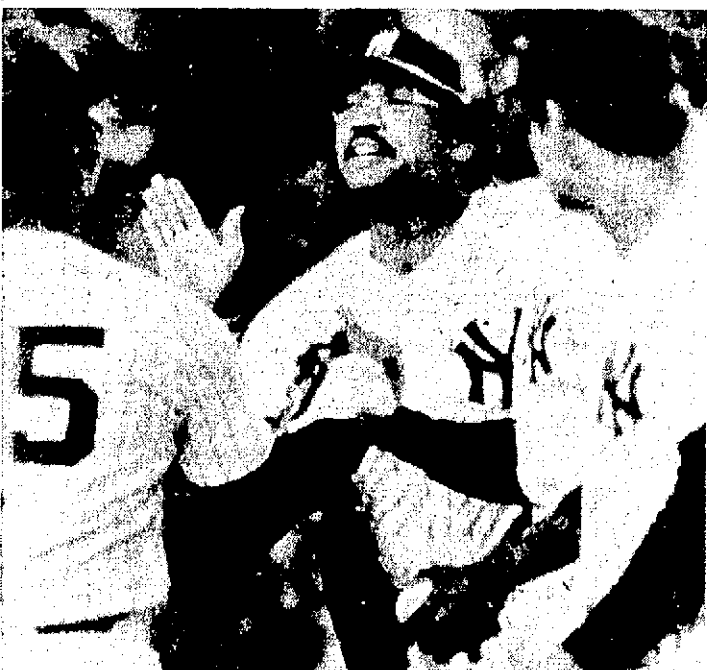

The loss gives Decatur and Ranger identical 8-4 records. Not far behind is Paw Paw at 7-1 and Gables stands at 6-4.

Maxwell struck out eight and walked just two in recording the victory. He also drove in the winning run with a sacrifice in the sixth inning.

Gary Aber led off the frame with a double and Jeff Phillips got on base on an error. A sacrifice by Carl Morgan moved them both up and then Aber scored on an error on the catcher to tie the game at 2-2.

Aber had a single and double for the winners, 14-2 in the league and 10-4 overall.

Karl Wiese took the loss while Dave Cerven batted out two hits.

Golfers Recall Western Am Highlights

Jay Haas was the winner, Craig Stadler the loser, but their most vivid memory from play in the Western Amateur is the same.

It was the 16th hole of their semifinal match during the 1974 Western Amateur at Point O' Woods, and... well, let Stadler recall it in his own words.

"I'm sure you all remember the match between myself and Jay Haas. He was 3 down with 3 to go as he banked a 40-foot putt off my ball and into the hole to continue the match, which he went on to win on the 20th hole to go into the finals. I will never forget that moment."

Neither will thousands of fans who witnessed that stirring comeback, and neither will Jay Haas, who eventually lost the championship match on the same 20th hole to roommate Curtis Strange. "I will never forget the tremendous ovation," he says of his celebrated bank shot.

Over the years, the Western Amateur has produced countless moments of similar drama, and as the Western Golf Association prepares for the Diamond Anniversary tournament at Point O' Woods Golf & Country Club Aug. 3-7, there are memories galore to recall.

Not all of them are memories of victory... or even of defeat. Lindy Miller, a contestant this year, remembers "the first time I stepped on the course, I couldn't believe how pretty it was," and Gary Hallberg, another 1977 entrant, recalls "Curtis Strange shooting 65 in 1976 during the qualifying for match play."

Jerry Pale, a free spirit who won the U.S. Open last year, says his most vivid memory is "doing the hole-by-hole radio announcing during the final match between Curtis Strange and Jay Haas in 1974."

Yes, even the contestants enjoy the tournament from the spectators' point of view. Witness Scott Simpson, the Southern California star who will make his final appearance in the Western Amateur this year after winning back-to-back NCAA championships.

"My most vivid memory is watching the Andy Bean-Curtis Strange semifinal match two years ago, which was probably the most exciting I've ever seen," he says. "The 18th hole was fantastic. Andy hit his second shot way right in the woods. Curtis has driven perfectly, but hit a 3-iron right in the woods, also."

"Andy ran it up 30 feet away on the green and Curtis boldly ran it over the green into the trap. Curtis got set, the gallery quieted, then everyone erupted when he clipped it in from the trap. The crowd had barely settled down when Andy rolled home his own birdie putt and everyone cheered and nobody believed they both make such fantastic pressure birdies."

Those who consider the present tournament format a grind — 72 holes of qualifying and four 18-hole matches — can imagine what it was like when the matches were 36 holes each.

Skeel Hiegel, the 1948 champion, recalls "playing in the heat at Wichita, Kansas, and Marilyn Smith bringing me Cokes during the finals" while 1958 champion James (Billy) Key says "I will never forget the physical aspect of that tournament, particularly since it was played in the hot Florida sun."

Tommy Aaron, the 1960 champion, says "my most vivid memory is the defeat by Bob Cochran in the finals. The format was a most strenuous one and Bob Cochran had a bad back that could not withstand all the golf that was required in one week. I think this defeat caused the WGA to change the tournament format somewhat."

A lighter note is provided by Art Hudnutt, who admits he entered the 1962 Western Amateur only because he had paid his club's membership fee and was "too Scotch" to withdraw, despite the fact that he was "disgusted" with his game.

"My wife and I checked out of our motel each morning expecting to head home to Elyria (Ohio) and it wasn't until the semifinal match that it occurred to me that my name might follow Jack Nicklaus' name on the trophy."

"The following year, Tom Welskopf won and I have had great fun ever since telling everyone of the three famous Ohio golfers who won the Western Amateur in the years 1961, 1962 and 1963."

In recent years, of course, the memories have centered on Point O' Woods, which has become the permanent home of the Western Amateur and will be hosting the tournament for the ninth time in 15 years this summer.

Bob E. Smith, the 1965 winner, clearly remembers "being two down with two holes to go and winning on the 19th hole in the finals," while Andy North, the 1971 champion, recalls an incident involving Marshall Dunn, the WGA executive director.

North, who had twice previously finished as runner-up in the Western Junior, tells it this way:

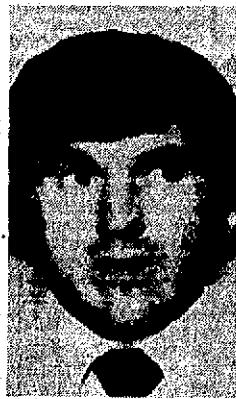

"During the finals I was walking off the 10th tee three down and Marshall walked over to me and with a smile and a laugh said 'if you don't get your act together, it looks like you'll be runner-up again.'"

"I proceeded to win four of the next nine holes to win the championship. Thanks, Marshall."

Tom Watson, the reigning Masters and British Open champion and leading money-winner on the PGA tour, never did win the Western Amateur, but he did share medalist honors with Allen Miller at the "Point" in 1971. He remembers "making a 15-foot putt in the 18th green to tie for the medal. If it had missed the hole, the ball would have gone at least 10 feet by."

Curtis Strange produced a lot of memories in 1974 when he made a clean sweep of the big trophies and posted two course records, but his own favorite is one you might not expect.

"My most vivid memory is just the Western Amateur and WGA itself," he says. "To this day, I have never seen such enthusiasm running an amateur event. The people and officials are what make or break a tournament and the Western Amateur has the finest in people."

NY Nets Score Legal Triumph

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Nets won just 22 games during the 1976-77 National Basketball Association season. But they scored a significant off-court triumph Tuesday when they received permission to move to New Jersey.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien stepped into the dispute between the Nets and the New York Knicks, who — citing terms of the NBA-ABA merger agreement — claimed their territorial rights would be violated by the move and asked the courts to provide a solution.

The Nets, meanwhile, filed two suits asking permission for the move. Judge Robert L. Carter presided over a two-day trial, then asked the teams to attempt an out-of-court settlement. A 10-hour bargaining session, directed by O'Brien, produced the agreement early Tuesday.

The settlement allows the Nets to play in Rutgers University's new 8,500-seat gymnasium in Piscataway, N.J., for at least one season, then move into a prospective 20,000-seat arena to be built in the Hackensack Meadowslands.

In exchange, the Nets will give the Knicks "financial and other considerations," according to O'Brien. It was reported that these financial considerations could be $1 million. In addition to the $3.2 million owed the Knicks from a $4 million indemnity provision of the merger.

The Nets may also be required to deliver a first-line player.

Judge Carter approved the agreement late Tuesday. Nets owner Roy Hoo scheduled a news conference today to announce the team's move to New Jersey. But Hoo, who also owns the New York Islanders of the National Hockey League, will face legal opposition from Nassau County.

Nassau Executive Ralph G. Cuso said the county would seek a preliminary injunction restraining the Nets from leaving the Nassau Coliseum.

"The Nassau County Attorney has assured me, based on correspondence with the Nets, that the county has a legal contract with the Nets for the 1977-78 season," Cuso insisted.

Lady Bird Said No To Carter's Ambassadorship

Q: Lady Bird Johnson was a superb First Lady. Why doesn't the government give her some kind of official job? — H.T., Toledo

A: President Carter offered to make Lady Bird ambassador to Mexico but she turned it down. Reason? She wanted to stay in the U.S. and be close to her children and grandchildren.

Q: I thought that story about Mike Todd's grave being robbed was horrible. How did Liz Taylor feel about it? — R.C., St. Paul

A: Liz was devastated by the incident to the point of arguing with her husband, John Warner, who couldn't or wouldn't understand her dismay. "God, Elizabeth, it was 20 years ago."

PEOPLE

By Robin Adams Sloan

sniped John when Liz was telling a friend how undone she was by the whole thing.

Q: Since there are so many movie sequels these days I've been expecting a series of Agatha Christie films in view of the success of "Murder on the Orient Express," but so far, no... why? — J.D., Houston

A: It takes time to follow up with movie sequels but two Christie pictures are in the planning stages based on her mysteries, "Murder on the Nile," and "Evil Under the Sun." That's the good news. The bad is that Albert Finney absolutely refuses to repeat himself by playing Inspector Hercule Poirot again, so look for another actor as the famous detective.

QUESTION WE DOUBT YOU'D ASK: What foreign diplomat was often in the nude when he was negotiating with our former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger? The answer: Sir Peter Ramsbotham. He's the one who's been unceremoniously dumped by his government and replaced by the prime minister's son-in-law, Peter Jay. At a recent private farewell dinner attended by some of Washington's top brass, Sir Peter spoke fondly of his years of dealing with Henry and recalled that whenever something important came up, Kissinger would phone him right away at home. "Little did he know," mused the ambassador, "that he almost always got me in the bath, probably making me the only ambassador to be negotiating with Henry Kissinger in the nude."

LEGAL BATTLE: Nicol Williamson and his wife, Jill Townsend, got a bitter divorce two months ago and they're still fighting. Williamson has brought suit claiming Jill libeled him in a newspaper interview. Jill, in turn, has halted Williamson into court claiming he owes her $5,000.

Q: Has Warren Beatty finished that movie he was going to produce and direct? — E.T., Lodi, N.J.

A: The film hasn't even started yet. Beatty wasn't satisfied with the Elaine May script and called in his old buddy Buck Henry to do a rewrite. Work isn't moving along too rapidly since Buck and Warren spend practically every night out cruising for girls.

POWER PARTY: If you're a powerful figure in Congress you can have your wedding reception anywhere and Rep. John Brademas planned on his at Dumbarton Oaks in Georgetown, which is a little like renting Buckingham Palace for a party. Brademas, who used to be one of Washington's most eligible and sought-after bachelors, is marrying Mary Ellen Briggs, a 40-year-old divorcee from Brademas' home state of Indiana. The bride is just finishing medical school.

Designer Finds Beauty In Dead Saguaro Cacti

By BOB RAST
Associated Press Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Fred Harvey designs tables, lamps, planters and other similar objects from the skeletal wood of dead saguaro cacti. No two of the desert leviathans are alike.

The 28-year-old Morristown, N.J., native moved to Arizona nearly 10 years ago seeking a degree in psychology from the University of Arizona. But he skeleton was a stroke of luck, he said, after four years of looking. He's been offered $1,200 for the result.

"I'd been looking for one with four evenly spaced arms since I started working with saguaros and I stumbled on this one in the desert west of Tucson where some land was being developed," he said. "The bulldozers were just going to plow it all under."

Harvey sandblasts the skeletons then sprays on urethane varnish with an air-gun to seal the finish.

One of his more interesting pieces is a standing planter. A lamp hidden inside radiates through the ribs of the six-foot-tall skeleton, yielding a soft indirect light. He molds candles inside saguaro ribs to allow a soft translucent light to seep through.

the southwestern third of Arizona and northern Sonora in Mexico.

Saguaro wood particularly lends itself to flower displays, plants and ferns, both house and garden. The beauty of the natural wood grain draws attention to plants and brings out their colors.

LMC Has Mechanic Test Data

Michigan auto mechanics certification test schedules and registration forms for the next set of 16 tests certifying Michigan mechanics are now available at Lake Michigan college, according to Samuel Laswell, LMC automotive technologies instructor.

The tests will cover six repair categories for heavy duty truck mechanics, eight for auto and light truck mechanics, one for motorcycle mechanics, and one for recreational trailer mechanics, Laswell said.

Beginning next year — in January, 1978 — every repair facility in the state must employ at least one state certified mechanic for each service category offered, the LMC instructor indicated.

The tests dates follow:
Heavy Duty Trucks (registration deadline, Aug. 5); Engine Repair — Gasoline, Sept. 10; Engine Repair — Diesel, Sept. 10; Drive Train, Sept. 17; Brakes and Braking Systems, Sept. 17; Suspension and Steering Systems, Sept. 24; Electrical Systems, Sept. 24.

Motorcycles and Recreational Trailers (registration deadline, Sept. 2); Tests will be given, Oct. 29.

Libya's 'Finger On The Trigger'

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — The border conflict with Egypt has ended but Libya will remain on the alert and "keep the finger on the trigger," says a Libyan military spokesman.

The spokesman also told reporters at a news conference Tuesday to expect "an exciting thing any moment" because of Cairo's warning to Libya not to attack Sudan, Egypt's southern neighbor and ally.

PSC Charges Rules Broken

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Drummond Island Telephone Co. broke state rules by denying service to several customers, the state Public Service Commission has charged. The PSC complaint, alleges the company refused service to four residential customers on grounds that the cost of providing that service might be too high. The company also allegedly said it feared the customers' requests for permanent service might be changed to requests for less-profitable seasonal service once the connection was made. The company, headquartered at Carney in the western Upper Peninsula, has 20 days to reply to the PSC's complaint. It serves 866 customers in Chippewa, Luce and Mackinac counties.

Registration forms can be obtained from the office of Ben Standun, LMC occupational studies dean. The tests will be offered at 25 locations around the state, including Kalamazoo and Battle Creek. Registration forms should be mailed to: Mechanic Certification Division, Bureau of Automotive Regulation, Michigan Department of State, Lansing, Mich. 48918.

Gallup Youth Survey

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — With a majority of the nation's parents believing that drinking and drug use are serious problems in the schools, the Gallup Youth Survey sought the views of teenagers themselves on the reasons why so many young people today are using alcohol or drugs.

When the views of the more than 1,000 teenagers are analyzed, two key reasons emerge: peer pressure and escape from the pressures of modern-day life.

Other reasons frequently mentioned are "for kicks," problems at home, "showing off," and trying to act "grown up."

A 15-year-old ninth grade girl said: "People my age sometimes follow the group so they won't be outcasts. They try to enjoy themselves, but then things get out of hand."

Some cite "escape from pressures of being a teenager." "Alcohol and drugs are an escape from school and family problems and they let the world drift away," said one high school junior.

Another high school boy sees as a key reason for young people turning to drugs and alcohol "social tensions caused by lack of trust and love in one's family."

And the views of another high school male, also a senior: "Inner frustrations, escapism, and to 'blend in' with the crowd."

A 16-year-old girl had this to say: "Kids nowadays are not given any alternatives to drinking and drug use — there aren't any places to go or things to do so to have fun and excitement they drink and smoke pot."

As reported earlier by the Gallup Youth Survey, teenagers across the nation consider the use and abuse of drugs the biggest problem facing their own generation. Also mentioned frequently was alcohol use and abuse.

When teenagers were asked why they think so many young people are involved in car accidents, the largest group pointed to drinking and driving. Others cited recklessness and inexperience.

The problems of alcohol and drug abuse are so serious that schools throughout the nation are giving courses that deal with those problems and dangers.

In the current survey, 64 per cent of teenagers interviewed indicated they had received instruction dealing with drug abuse, while 57 per cent say so in regard to alcohol abuse.

These findings are based on a nationwide survey conducted among a carefully selected cross-section of more than 1,000 teenagers, 13-18, who were asked this question:

"As you see it, what is the reason why so many young people are using alcohol and drugs?"

Here are the findings:

Purnell Lawyer To Base Defense On Innocence

By PAULA HOLMES
Special Correspondent
CHARLEVOIX — The defense in the second murder trial for David Jordan Purnell will be based on innocence, Purnell's attorney said yesterday.

"Our position is that he (Purnell) is innocent," Atty. Roman Plaszcak told a special correspondent for The Herald-Palladium outside of court. Purnell's defense during the first trial, in 1972, was not guilty by reason of insanity.

Five witnesses testified for the prosecution yesterday during the second day of Purnell's new trial.

Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka and Plaszcak questioned 50 prospective jurors before settling on a 14-member panel composed of nine men and five women, all white. Two of the jurors will be dismissed at the end of the trial.

Purnell, 29, is being retried on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the 1971 slaying of Janet Uland, 20, of St. Joseph. Purnell was convicted in 1972, sentenced to life in prison, then won a retrial when the conviction was overturned.

He was granted a change of venue from Berrien county by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White, who sentenced Purnell, and who is presiding at the new trial.

The prosecution yesterday followed the same witness order used in the 1972 trial, with Smietanka calling as his first witness Daniel Uland, father of the victim. Other witnesses included Wilson Singer, who found Miss Uland's clothing after her disappearance, Hurley Daniels, who found Miss Uland's body, Sgt. Michael Robinson, a state police detective who worked on the case, and Berrien Deputy Larry Morrow, who also worked on the investigation.

Smietanka, during his opening statement, spent one hour reconstructing for the jury the events of the night Janet Uland disappeared. He said the evidence would show that Miss Uland knew Purnell and that the relationship between the two resulted in her death.

Purnell appeared relaxed during the proceedings, wearing a brown suit and blue dress shirt open at the neck.

Smietanka was unable to state which witnesses would take the stand today, saying the long distances witnesses have to travel may force the prosecution to take some out of order. Charlevoix, the county seat of Charlevoix county, is about 50 miles south of the Mackinac bridge.

The prosecutor said he expects to call 20 witnesses to the stand. Plaszcak declined to say how many witnesses the defense will call.

Smietanka said he expected to finish his part of the case early next week, and Plaszcak could make an opening statement at that time. The trial has been scheduled for two weeks.

Lake Agrees On Price For Baroda Twp. Water

BARODA — Lake township has agreed to a tentative price for the water it has been asked to sell to Baroda township.

At an informal meeting at the Baroda township hall last night, Lake township officials offered to sell water for 65 cents per 1,000 gallons, the same price Lake township has offered Chikaming township, according to Baroda Township Supervisor Earl Nitz.

Baroda village officials, Baroda township officials and Lake township officials met to discuss water prices and how to finance construction of water mains along Holden and Lemon Creek roads in Baroda township.

There was no formal action taken at the meeting, Nitz said.

Nitz said Lake township is prepared to start the water flowing anytime Baroda township and village resolve cost-sharing of the one-mile-long Lemon Creek road pipeline and get the Holden and Lemon Creek lines built.

Lake Township Supervisor Wade Shuler said water prices are tentative until formal contracts are signed with both townships.

Link Seen Between Two Safe Thefts At Andrews

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Police here said today they believe there is a link between the theft of some $1,000 last weekend from two different safes in buildings on the Andrews university campus.

In both cases, according to Berrien Springs village Ormoka township police, entry to the buildings apparently was made through use of keys and the safes were opened without being forced.

University officials told at-ficers that about $700 was taken from a desk drawer and safe in the food service buildings and another $235 is missing from a safe in the industrial education department building.

The theft from the food service building was reported Sunday morning and the theft from the industrial education building was reported Monday morning, police said.

There have been no arrests, police said.

RICKSHA PULLER: Tom Hatcher gives a ride on the Kalamazoo Mall for 15 cents a lift. It's a summer job

Student Becomes Kazoo Ricksha Man For Summer

By RALPH VARTABEDIAN
KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — The Conrail freight train rumbles by, spewing its blue-white diesel smoke into the warming early morning air.

The droning horn sounds its arrival along Kalamazoo's otherwise quiet North Side streets.

Tom Hatcher, asleep on a railroad right-of-way nearby, stirs and then awakes from his bed on an original-style ricksha.

He gathers his blankets and stows them under his seat and trols off for a day of ricksha-pulling on the city's Mall.

He doesn't look oriental, doesn't speak Japanese and the setting doesn't resemble Tokyo.

Nevertheless, Hatcher does pull a ricksha on the mall and at 15 cents a ride it is the cheapest transportation around. It even beats Japanese cumpels.

It's American," the young businessman declared.

Mornings begin on the railroad siding where he frequently sleeps in his ricksha that he built specially to convert into crude sleeping quarters.

"All you have to do is pull out the seat and slide it down for a bench," he explained. "My bedding is under the seat."

Aside from the rumbling trains and an occasional insect bite, Hatcher describes his outdoor existence as precisely what he wants in life now.

"When summer comes, I prefer to live outdoors," he said.

The ricksha he built from odds and ends. He rummaged through rubbish piles to find suitable bicycle wheels for the cart. He located some discarded plywood and pine for the frame and had a friend help with some welding.

"I used to be down on cars," he said. "But I'm not down on anything anymore," Hatcher said.

If the economies of the ricksha business look bad from a distance, they don't look any better from the low bar.

Hatcher said he earned $5 one Saturday afternoon and $15 the following Saturday afternoon. His $15 day, however, was aided substantially by customers who gave him $12 in tips.

At 15 cents a ride, Hatcher acknowledged that low revenues are the mark of his business.

"I don't know what would maximize my profit," he said. "If people have a dime, they'll give me a dime. But usually they don't have 15 cents so they give me a quarter. People are pretty generous."

Profit maximization is largely theory to Hatcher. During the off-season, he is a graduate student at Western Michigan University, studying physics, mathematics and economics.

He doesn't worry about school expenses, he said, because he draws veteran's benefits, having served in Panama as a weather observer for the Air Force.

"It's not at all related to school," Hatcher commented. "I just want to be outside."

There were some concerns about the ricksha business and possible legal problems that might develop.

Hatcher said he placed calls to numerous city officials to check on the legitimacy of the enterprise.

City Manager Robert Bab said he had no problems with the ricksha, Hatcher recalled. But another official warned Hatcher he would need insurance.

"So I went to some insurance companies," Hatcher said. "They said they would charge me $100 for ricksha insurance. But I haven't had any accidents so far."

Business is still growing. In the planning stage are modifications to the ricksha that include a canopy and a pedal system for driving the vehicle.

CBS Will Pay 'Em To Watch

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The old saying, "You couldn't pay me to watch that show," may get the acid test next fall. CBS, to help publicize its new series, will run a $250,000 sweepstakes for viewers then.

"It's designed to get 'em to at least sample the shows," says Louis Dorfman, the veteran CBS advertising chief who hatched the campaign. "If they get hooked, that's marvelous."

The campaign, costing CBS more than a million, kicks off at the start of the 1977-78 campaign with an 11-page advertisement in the Sept. 17 edition of TV Guide magazine. In addition to touting the 10 new series on CBS' fall schedule, the ad includes a card viewers are asked to fill out and mail to CBS to be eligible to win cash, goods or both.

The last day for card-mailing is Oct. 21. The winners — no individual can win more than $25,000 — will be announced on Nov. 21.

"What we're doing is asking the reader to watch at least five of the new shows and answer some simple questions we pose about them," said Dorfman. He was asked for a sample. "Oh, tough ones," he said in jest. "Like who plays the lead on 'The Betty White Show'?" Other questions will ask viewers what they like about various stars and various new shows, he added.

Must viewers actually observe the offerings to be eligible? "That's an iffy question," Dorfman said. "But there's no arm-twisting. What we say is, 'We would like you to watch.' However, they theoretically can send the cards in without watching the shows."

When Dorfman first unveiled his sweepstakes campaign to CBS affiliates last June, he noted that campaigns similar to it had been run the last 18 months by a number of package goods advertisers.

In those efforts, viewers were asked to watch specific commercials on specific shows, he said, and it resulted in a 17 per cent average rise in ratings for all the programs in which the ads appeared.

And, in a phone chat from New York, he made no bones about CBS' campaign seeking to raise ratings as well as publicize new shows.

If the advertisers' works caused a 17 per cent ratings hike, he said, "I don't know why I couldn't figure on a 25 per cent increase. I think people would rather watch shows than commercials."

Dorfman, who expects three million to five million viewers to answer CBS' question cards, said it's the first time he can recall that any television network ever tried a campaign such as his.

STORE OPENS: Siegfried Plontek of St. Joseph has remodeled this former gas station into convenience food store and gas station at 6480 Paw Paw avenue, Coloma township. Store is open seven days weekly.

Plontek operates similar store at corner of Hilltop and Washington in St. Joseph township and said he plans to open third later this year near Napier and Colfax in Fairplain. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls during the week ending July 22 were:

SENATE

B1 Bomber — The Senate voted 59-36 to delete $1.4 billion previously authorized for procurement of five B1 bombers from the fiscal 1978 Department of Defense appropriations bill.

Supporters of deleting B1 funds argued the Senate should support President Carter's decision to halt production of the B1 bomber in favor of the cruise missile.

Opponents of deleting B1 funds argued the President's decision had been a political one to fulfill a campaign promise. They also said that the cruise missile was untested and that modification of existing B-52s to carry the missile would be nearly as expensive as building the B1, while providing far less military capability.

Voting to delete B1 funds: Riegle (D).

Voting not to bar B1 funds: Griffin (R).

Military Pensions — The Senate voted 49-46 to continue payment of both a military pension and a federal paycheck to military retirees who hold federal jobs — so-called "double dipping." The vote overturned a Senate Appropriations committee recommendation to ban such payments.

Supporters of double compensation argued that it was in the nation's interest to encourage early retirement of many of its military personnel so that the military would remain young and vigorous. A ban on double compensation would dampen military morale and have harmful effects on enlistment and re-enlistment rates, they warned.

Opponents of double compensation argued that it unnecessarily encouraged early retirement from the military and that it was unreasonable for people at employable ages to receive retirement pay in addition to pay for a second career. Banning double compensation would be a first step toward controlling the cost of military pensions, they said.

Voting to continue double compensation: None.

HOUSE

Veterans Benefits — By a vote of 251-160, the House instructed its conferees to a House-Senate conference committee to insist on an amendment barring veterans benefits for Vietnam-era servicemen who had their discharges upgraded under President Carter's review program.

Supporters of barring the benefits argued that it would be unfair to provide full benefits to those who served less than honorably during the Vietnam war. They pointed out that the amendment does not affect discharges that have been upgraded through regular procedures.

Opponents of barring the benefits argued that the program is an equitable and rational way of dealing with less-than-honorable discharges and that it is time to end the division of the Vietnamera.

Voting to bar benefits: Blanchard (D), Brown (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Not Voting: Stockman (R).

Nursing Home Bill Wins Wide Backing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation to impose tougher regulations on nursing homes and require better care for their patients has won strong endorsements from the elderly, nurses and social workers.

Witness after witness testified at a public hearing this week that nursing home care often is poor, homes are understaffed and some elderly persons just wait — and occasionally die — after being placed in a home.

Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, sponsor of the reform bill, said after the hearing that he will begin work on the measure this fall in his Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee.

Monday's hearing was the last of four on the bill, and Otterbacher said he now will start rewriting the measure line by line. In addition, serious discussion with the nursing home industry will now begin, he said.

Otterbacher said he has heard little testimony from the industry during the hearings on the bill. But, he said, it runs a powerful lobby at the Capitol, and passage will be difficult if it opposes the measure.

The bill would improve staffing standards, require better medical treatment and establish stronger penalties for fraud, kickbacks and abuse. It includes a list of patients' rights, banning arbitrary transfers and requiring investigation of homes upon patients' complaints.

Representatives of senior citizens' organizations endorsed the bill, calling it a "high priority" and a "major advance" in nursing home law.

"This bill hurts no one who is doing his or her job right," said Floyd Lutz, representing the Retired Teachers Association.

Judy Ward, a registered nurse, urged Otterbacher to improve the staffing requirements in the bill. "Unless we act to change this, we ourselves will endure this in our old age," she said.

Neal Pleasant, however, defended nursing homes as generally providing adequate care. He is president of Valley Ancillary Services, which provides laboratory, pharmacy and other services to Detroit-area homes.

"Only a handful should be closed down for poor quality," he said. And, with an apparent dig at Otterbacher's aspirations for the U.S. Senate, he added: "Too many people are seeking political gain rather than cleaning up the nursing homes."

Pleasant argued that the bill would help the quality of care, but said nursing homes need more money to do the job right.

DUFFY-MOTT STILL FOR SALE: Duffy-Mott Co. plant in Hartford, which ceased fruit processing operations in September, 1976, is on sale block but has not been sold yet, according to company officials in New York. They denied rumors 186,000 square foot plant had been sold. Building is located on 179 acres of land and fronts on Red Arrow highway east of Hartford. James King, broker with Coldwell Banker, a Chicago commercial brokerage company, said asking price for plant and its equipment is $3,750,000. When plant closed last year, it put most of 120 workers out of a job. (Adolph Hann aerial photo)

Lansing Buys Flak Vests

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Just a month after the first of their number died in the line of duty, Lansing has decided to begin putting bullet-proof vests on all its on-duty police. The city council Monday approved $18,200 for 288 vests and said it hopes the gear will be mandatory for all officers. Patrolman Mac Donnelly Jr. was gunned down June 16 when he stopped a bank robber who was trying to escape in a car with four hostages. Four people have been arrested.

Welfare And Work Ethic Get Low Marks

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Public welfare programs do nearly nothing to eliminate poverty, according to a University of Michigan study.

Neither, apparently, does the time-honored American ethic that says "work hard and you'll get ahead."

Those conclusions were among several reached by researchers who conducted the nine-year, nationwide economic study of 11,000 persons who were questioned each year since 1967.

James Morgan, director of the study, said virtually no evidence was found that personal attitudes such as self-confidence, ambition and motivation have much to do with economic improvement.

"It also doesn't seem to help much to plan ahead, look for better jobs, hold high hopes for the future or follow the principle that hard work pays off," Morgan said.

Instead, the study indicated, the number of wage-earners in the family appears to be the main factor behind economic improvement.

"If everybody is working and earning money, then they are well off," said Morgan.

Thus if a wage-earning man marries a working woman, they are likely to improve their financial lot, he explained. By the same token, Morgan added, a divorce or a new child can create a financial pinch.

Federal and state welfare programs costing $30 billion a year, he said, are "relatively unimportant" components of change in family well-being.

According to the study, welfare eliminates only about one-fifth of the one-year poverty, one-third of the persistent poverty and less than one-tenth of the intermittent poverty.

"If we regard the welfare system as the last resort," Morgan said, "it is still doing only a fraction of the job it might do."

The researcher said the study also found very few persons continually poor over long periods of time.

In fact, he said, not many persons hold steady at any economic level, but instead bounce up and down the economic scale.

Morgan said 22 per cent of the study group considered poor in 1975 were judged to be poor in all nine years of the study. But nearly a third of the sample slumped below the poverty line for at least one of the nine years.

Art, Symphony Grants Total

$1.75 Million

DETROIT (AP) — Grants totaling $1.75 million have been awarded to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the Founders Society of the Detroit Institute of Arts by the national Endowment for the Arts.

The grants were awarded under a new program in which the federal money is matched on a 3-1 basis by private contributors.

Watervliet Issues

$6,050 In Permits

WATERVLIET — Building permits covering an estimated $6,050 in construction work were issued in Watervliet during June, according to Walter Duda, city building inspector.

He said permits were issued to: Keith Bain, 349 Paw Paw avenue, erect garage at an estimated cost of $2,200; Helen Levittin, 388 First street, general repairs, $500; Eugene Bednarowski, 339 Sutherland, re-roof, $750; Ervin Will, 127 Lewis, general repairs, $500; Samuel Gravitt, 117 Forest Park, re-roof, $1,800.

They're Reluctant To Hold Office In West Virginia Town

COALTON, W.Va. (AP) — For most of its 92 years, Coalton has had a tough time getting people to hold public office. But the city council thought it had everything worked out this time — emphasis on the word "thought."

The council elected Thomas Moran as its new mayor Monday night. He replaced Julius Altieri, who resigned last Friday, three days after he was elected. It then elected the wife of councilman Bradley Jones as recording secretary. She replaced Kathleen Cheuning, who also resigned last Friday, three days after she was elected. Altieri cited personal reasons for resigning. Mrs. Cheuning declined comment.

But Mrs. Jones, who has a 7-month-old daughter, said she didn't know whether she would be able to handle the recording secretary post.

And one of the community's newly elected council members, Ben Zireh, did not show up for his swearing in or for Monday night's meeting. He was unavailable for comment.

Coalton was incorporated 92 years ago and named Wamslerdorff after a pioneering coal mine operator. It acquired its alias over the years because of its location in the state's eastern mining regions.

Coalton has had a long history of problems filling offices. Its population is 234. It has 10 elected officials: the mayor, five council members, the recording secretary, a fire chief, a city attorney and a postmaster.

Altieri, Mrs. Cheuning and the city council were elected in a special write-in ballot June 21 in which 71 city residents voted.

The special election was called after West Virginia Secretary of State A. James Manchin had threatened to dissolve the city government because former Mayor Martin DeMotto decided not to hold a scheduled election June 7. No one had signed up to run.

Mayor Moran promised to try sorting out the whole mess. "Coalton has been in a turmoil for the past 10 years," he said, adding that he is going to try to "heal some of those wounds."

Emphasis on the word "try."

Highway Inspector Retiring

DECATUR — Floyd Nagle, 300 East St. Mary's street, here, a construction inspector who personally inspected most of the trees and shrubs planted on state highways since 1967, retired Friday after 19 years with the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

A native of Benton Harbor, he joined the department in 1958 as an engineering aide. Because of his 25 years of nursery experience in the Benton Harbor area, he was seasonally assigned to statewide inspection of roadside tree and shrub plantings.

Still Asian Power?

TOKYO (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown told Japanese defense officials today the United States is determined to remain "an East Asian and West Pacific power" despite the planned withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Korea. American officials said.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Retreat Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again today, continuing the slump that set in at the start of the week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped nearly 2 points in early trading.

Losers took a 4-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts have blamed the market's weakness this week on persistent concern about the economic outlook.

Wall Street was bracing for some possible negative news when the government makes its monthly report on the index of leading economic indicators on Friday.

Today's prices included BankAmerica, off 1/4 at 24 3/4; Union Carbide, down 1/4 at 40, and Westinghouse Electric, unchanged at 21 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 6.06 to 908.18 on the heels of Monday's 9.18-point drop.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Volume totaled 21.39 million shares on the Big Board, against 20.43 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index lost 32 to 54.07.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gave up .73 to 122.09.

LOWER: Dow Jones average Tuesday lost 6.06 points, closing at 908.18, in decline blamed on defensive mood of traders worried about stockening company in second half of 1977. Bad earnings by Exxon and U.S. Steel also depressed the market. Brokers said, Tuesday's loss makes decline since start of the week more than half of the 20-point advance scored in the previous six sessions. ## Detroit Edison Says Earnings Up 64 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Edison's earnings increased 64 per cent in the year ended June 30, the utility said Tuesday. Profits were $108 million. Earnings per share rose proportionately less, by 50 per cent to $2.01 per share, because the number of shares outstanding rose 9 per cent. Operating revenues increased 23 per cent to $1.41 billion as kilowatt hour sales rose 5.2 per cent, Detroit Edison said.

Real Estate Broker Is Bound To Circuit Court

Real estate broker Morris H. Jones, 61, of St. Joseph, yesterday waived examination in Berrien Fifth District court and was bound over to Circuit court on two charges of embezzlement.

Jones, of 4922 Washington avenue, had demanded examination on the charges when he was arraigned June 30. He continued free on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

He is accused of embezzling about $2,000 from an escrow account from May 1, 1975, through Dec. 31, 1976, according to the prosecutor's office.

The escrow account was set up to pay principal interest, insurance and property taxes on a house in Benton Harbor. The charges stem from a real estate deal involving the sale of the house at 442 Pipestone street from Helmut Kissinger of Berrien Springs to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dyer.

In other District court cases yesterday, Roger D. Mallock, 20, of 2304 Lawrence drive, Benton township, was bound over on charges of delivery of marijuana and delivery of phentermine. Mallock was arrested by the Berrien Metro Narcotics squad in May. He was returned to jail in lieu of bonds totaling $15,000.

Mallock had previously been bound over on both charges after waiving preliminary hearings, but both cases were later remanded back to District court so the hearings could be held.

Ronald J. Young, 32, of Box 408, West Elm street, Watervliet, was sentenced to a 90-day jail term for impaired driving, second offense, on March 13 in Coloma township. He was also sentenced to three days in jail and fines and costs of $62 for driving with a revoked license.

Darlene G. Fly, 29, of Michigan City, Ind., was sentenced to pay $200 and serve 30 days probation for possession of marijuana on I-94 in St. Joseph township July 13. A charge of possession of heroin was dismissed.

Also sentenced were Roy M. Christ, 19, of Union Pier, 890 or 30 days for reckless driving; and Vernie Hicks, 58, of Detroit, $102 or 14 days for impaired driving.

Jury Convicts Man Of 2 Drug Counts

A Bainbridge township man was convicted yesterday in Berrien Circuit court of two drug charges stemming from an investigation by the Berrien Metro Narcotics squad. Jurors deliberated about 3 1/2 hours before returning guilty verdicts against Rodney Struble, 29, whose address was listed in court records as 841 North Park road. He was convicted of possession with intent to deliver amphetamines and marijuana Jan. 12 in Bainbridge township. The amphetamines charge carries a maximum sentence of seven years in prison, while the marijuana charge has a maximum of four years imprisonment. Opposing counsel in the three-day trial in Judge Chester J. Byrns' courtroom were Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Gezon and St. Joseph Atty. Richard Lindenfeld.

VAN BUREN COURT

Hearing Is Asked On Arson Charge

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau
PAW PAW — A former Dowagiac woman was arraigned Tuesday in Seventh district court on a charge of arson stemming from a fire at her mobile home in 1976.

Marilyn Bannow, 34, demanded a preliminary examination on the charge and was released on her own recognizance. An Aug. 2 hearing was set.

According to a report filed by the state fire marshal's office in Paw Paw, a mobile home owned by Mrs. Bannow on 54th street near Decatur burned on Aug. 30, 1976. The report indicated the fire might have been deliberately set in an attempt to collect the insurance money.

A spokesman for the Van Buren prosecutor's office said Mrs. Bannow has been living in Nevada since the charge was authorized in 1976, and recently agreed to return.

In other case, Harry Baldwin, 66, 24th avenue, Gobles, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of second degree criminal sexual conduct.

The charge stems from a complaint by a Gobles woman that her 7-year-old daughter was molested on June 21.

Louise L. Barber, 48, 50 1/2 street, Hartford, was bound over to circuit court following a preliminary examination on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants, third offense. He was arrested on Red Arrow highway near 30 1/2 street in Hartford township on July 18.
